Huge Artillery
Shotgun Shells
Used By ArmyBy BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army has started using what amounts to huge artillery shotgun shells against the Communists in South Vietnam sources report.

New artillery rounds fired in regular 165mm Howitzer pieces spray thousands of dart-shaped steel shafts over broad areas of jungle or open territory.

One well-aimed round can kill hundreds of enemy troops massing for an attack.

Military men report the weapon has been used with lethal effectiveness in such actions as Communist charges against American artillery positions below the Demilitarized Zone.

"I've seen reports of enemy soldiers actually being nailed to trees by these things," one officer commented.

Information on the antipersonnel cartridge has been cleared for publication by the Defense Department's security review office but defense officials decided not to announce its development. (Turn To Page Four)

Urges Speedy
Action Against
Two Pollutions

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Illinois state Sen. Paul Simon, D-Troy, declared Wednesday night that pressures of population and industrial growth make necessary speedy action against air and water pollution.

"One of the greatest challenges to this generation is to make sure that we have clean water, clean air and adequate park and recreation space, so that future generations can enjoy what we take for granted," said Simon.

He added, "The growing pressure of population and its attendant industrial growth make early action imperative."

Simon, who has been mentioned as a possible Democratic candidate for U.S. senator, spoke at a Milwaukee area Kiwanis Club meeting.

The lawmaker also said it is essential that states bordering the Lake Michigan "cooperate in preserving this rich heritage for generations to come."

He asserted that "federal intervention will be necessary to the extent that the states fail to do the job. Hopefully the states will act and decisively."

Simon said, "Late next month the governors of the states bordering Lake Michigan are scheduled to meet at the request of Secretary Udall of the Interior Department. If that meeting fails to come up with a solution to the immediate and dangerous problems, agreed upon by all radiation storms will occur and states, then all of us have cause for concern."

Report OAS Money
Being MismanagedBy DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—A second congressional subcommittee will join a growing list of probers into reported financial irregularities within the Organization of American States.

Reports of alleged mismanagement of OAS money in Washington came amid announcements of OAS money irregularities abroad, the firing of a top Washington OAS official for alleged political interference and a deadlock over selection of a new secretary general.

Sources cite one bizarre liquor-buying incident prior to this year's Latin American summit meeting and hint of other alleged misdoings.

A report on a special $20,000 audit of OAS financial management—paid for by the United States—is expected in mid-February but U.S. Ambassador Sol M. Linowitz says it's not aimed at the reports of irregularities.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A House Armed Services subcommittee says allied forces in South Vietnam aren't doing a good enough job of keeping tabs on Communist troop sanctuaries in Cambodia.

"It is the firm view of the subcommittee that adequate search and surveillance measures are not being carried out," said Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., in discussing recommendations made by the subcommittee. Rivers heads the full Armed Services Committee.

Rivers told the House Wednesday the subcommittee also concluded: "Allied progress in the war is too slow."

"Halls in bombing of the North put the U.S. forces at a disadvantage."

"Military commanders should be allowed to pick primary targets, including anti-aircraft batteries and Soviet-supplied surface-to-air missile sites." (Turn To Page Four)

Pioneer 8 Data
May Ease Way Of Man-Moon Trip

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—Pioneer 8 soared through a long looping orbit about the sun today, reporting on conditions in interplanetary space. Its findings might ease the way for moon-bound astronauts.

The 145-pound spacecraft was launched Wednesday from Cape Kennedy as part of a two-in-one shot that concluded the space agency's launch activity for 1967.

Kicked into earth orbit as the Delta booster rocket stabbed into space was a small 40-pound communications payload called TTS, which stands for test and training satellite.

The TTS beams and receives radio signals on the same frequencies that will be used on Apollo man-to-the-moon flights and thus will provide valuable practice for the 18 ground stations in NASA's global Apollo tracking network.

Pioneer 8 zipped into a wide-swinging orbit that ranges from 92 million to 101 million miles from the sun's surface and will take 386 days to complete one circuit.

On its interplanetary journey it is gathering information on the solar wind, cosmic dust, Lake Michigan "cooperate in preserving this rich heritage for generations to come."

Signs New Open
Housing Measure
In Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP)—Mayor Henry Maier signed Milwaukee's new open housing ordinance Wednesday and sent it back to the Common Council.

The ordinance, which exempts most housing in the city, was passed by the council on Tuesday. It will become law upon publication.

Maier described the ordinance as "stronger than more than 90 per cent of the open housing laws in our country."

However, conflicting sides in the open housing controversy were unhappy with the measure.

Opponents wanted no ordinance at all pending a referendum on the issue scheduled for April. Proponents wanted a stronger law.

The ordinance, approved by a 13-6 vote, is virtually parallel to existing state law, which covers an estimated 33 per cent of Milwaukee's housing units.

The Rev. Walter B. Hoard, president of the Wisconsin and Milwaukee chapters of the NAACP, said the ordinance was a step forward.

TEMPERANCE HEAD
RAPS DRINKING
ON CHRISTMAS

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP)—"The birthday of Christ should not be made a barroom brawl for holiday hangovers," the president of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union said today.

Mrs. Fred J. Tooze urged Americans to reject the alcoholic beverage industry's "unprecedented promotion drive to submerge the approaching holidays in drink and drunkenness."

Mrs. Tooze, in a statement, said the amount of money being spent by the liquor industry to promote pre-holiday and holiday drink sales and consumption "is at a record high this year."

"With 15 per cent of their annual sales projected for between Thanksgiving and Christmas," Mrs. Tooze said, "distillers are from city to city, putting on pep shows for dealers including costly musical revues, and displays of gaudy gift wrappings highlighting the season."

"Some advertising," she continued, "contains a sales pitch to elderly as well as young women, and supplements a publicity campaign producing such headings as 'Jingle Bottles, Jingle Bottles, Santa's On The Way.'"

"Christmas-New Year's drinking has become a major factor in initiating alcoholism, now estimated to affect more than 25 million Americans, including the 10 million alcoholics and chronic drinkers, members of their families and their employers," she added.

NONWHITE JOBLESS
OVER TWICE WHITE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The jobless rate for nonwhites in the nation's 15 largest metropolitan areas is "more than twice as high as that of whites," says Labor Secretary W. Willard Wirtz.

In these areas, he told a Wednesday news conference, about 27 per cent of total unemployment was made up of non-white workers who account for only 14 per cent of the 23.15 million persons making up the civilian labor force.

He said the nonwhite jobless rate for the 15 areas combined was 7.7 per cent—more than double the rate for whites.

The figures, based on the first nine months of the year, were in a Bureau of Labor Statistics report and gathered from the Census Bureau's current population survey which samples more than 50,000 households monthly.

New York and Los Angeles, the two largest metropolitan areas studied, accounted for 12 per cent of total U.S. unemployment with about 180,000 jobless workers in each area.

CHRISTIANITY BLAMED FOR LACK OF RIGHTS WORK

DURHAM, N.H. (AP)—The Rev. James Groppi, the Roman Catholic priest from Milwaukee, and Richard Hatcher, mayor-elect of Gary, Ind., joined Wednesday night in blaming Christianity for failure to work for civil rights.

Father Groppi a few months ago led protest marchers for open housing in Milwaukee.

"The only thing the white power structure will listen to is black power," he told a capacity crowd at the University of New Hampshire.

He charged police were "sadistic" during the marches which led to numerous arrests, including that of Father Groppi.

Both he and Hatcher said Christian churches teach one thing inside their walls, but fail to apply it outside.

Hatcher said he was elected by grass roots support of the Negro community of Gary, which makes up half the population.

CHICAGO (AP)—Barton Stanley, 24, charged with murdering his mother, has been declared mentally incompetent to stand trial.

Stanley, who is accused of fatally shooting Mrs. Jean Stanley, 47, Oct. 9, was ruled incompetent Wednesday by a Circuit Court jury.

The shooting occurred in the Stanley home in Palatine Township, northwest of Chicago. Stanley surrendered to police when they arrived at his home.

Judge Richard J. Fitzgerald committed him to the custody of the Illinois Department of Mental Health.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate unexpectedly passed the Social Security bill at the start of today's Senate session, then after an angry flareup, reconsidered its action and set a vote on passage for 11 a.m. Friday.

The passage meant opponents of welfare provisions in the bill had lost a chance to engage in a filibuster that might have prevented passage of the bill at this session of Congress or at least delayed adjournment beyond this week.

Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, the deputy Democratic leader, maneuvered the bill to passage shortly after the Senate met with less than a dozen senators present.

However, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield protested strongly that the rights of individual senators had been disregarded.

He asked unanimous consent to have approval of the bill reconsidered. Long objected, saying he had learned from experience that "if you have a filibuster on your hands, you better break it when you can."

Taped Messages To Servicemen
Hold Heart Beat

NEW YORK (AP)—A five-year-old girl in a bright green dress spoke into the microphone of a tape recorder and told her daddy: "Happy New Year—and don't forget to bring the bike."

A college girl clutched the microphone, closed her eyes and whispered to her boyfriend: "The holidays just won't be the same without you."

A mother burst into tears after telling her son: "I want to wish you a very happy Chanukah, a very Merry Christmas, and a Happy, Happy New Year."

The three were among hundreds of New Yorkers who have been recording Christmas messages to their sons, fathers, husbands and fiancées stationed overseas.

Since Nov. 20, a steady stream of family members with servicemen abroad have been showing up at Red Cross headquarters here, taping their messages with the help of volunteers and mailing them to loved ones from Vietnam to West Germany.

"The response was very slow to begin with, but it's picked up tremendously this past week because it's getting closer to Christmas," said Catherine Sullivan, head of the Overseas Service League, the Red Cross auxiliary sponsoring the "Voices From Home" project.

"As of tonight we will have made about 250 tapes," Miss Sullivan said Wednesday. "By Sunday, we hope that we'll hit 500."

Says Spacecraft
Could Hurl
Nuclear Warhead

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—A Defense Department researcher says the United States has developed a space vehicle that can hurl nuclear warheads at several cities.

Dr. John S. Foster Jr., director of defense research and engineering told a dinner of the Dallas chapter of the Association of the U.S. Army and the Dallas Council on World Affairs on Wednesday that the "space bus" would counter additional missiles deployed by the Soviet Union.

After the main booster has cut off the bus can make minute adjustments of its speed and direction, and after each adjustment can eject one of the several re-entry vehicles with nuclear warheads that it carries, Foster said.

Thus each warhead would be delivered on a trajectory to a different city, or if desired, all could be delivered within one city.

The Poseidon, a new missile planned for deployment on Polaris nuclear submarines, will carry the space bus.

Foster said a worldwide military satellite communication system with transportable terminals has been deployed also.

The system can be moved to any spot in the world so that a local commander can maintain continuous and private communication with the Pentagon or White House.

Foster said the government's aggressive research program will guarantee the security of the United States.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey says President Johnson, who hasn't announced he'll seek another term, already "has sort of hit the sawdust trail" in a re-election campaign.

Humphrey, talking Wednesday with newsmen in Miami Beach, Fla., was referring to the President's speech to the AFL-CIO convention there the night before. Johnson called say in all candor many laws congressional Republican leadership wouldn't have passed this year.

"Old Republican buggy can only go one way, and that's backwards—downhill," Humphrey responded to the speech in predictably partisan fashion while less predictably — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said, "I don't field rose to the GOP's defense, see how you can throw a rock at a whole party. War Dead
In 6 Years

SAIGON (AP)—The number of American servicemen killed in combat in the Vietnam war dropped slightly last week for the third week in a row, while South Vietnamese casualties soared to a 1967 record of 330 dead.

The U.S. Command in its weekly summary said 191 Americans were killed in combat and 1,643 wounded. The number of dead was 13 less than the previous week, but the number of wounded was more than double the 634 reported the previous week.

The 1,643 wounded edged the total for the war near 400,000 to 96,746. U.S. headquarters said hospitalization was required by 803 of the wounded last week, and by 51,287 of the total wounded in the war.

The number of U.S. troops killed in action during the six years of American involvement in the war now stands at 15,459.

The U.S. Command also reported that the number of Americans missing, captured or interned in combat for the entire war as of last week was 868. For the previous week, the number of missing was put at 846.

Those Talismanic Incantations

The Supreme court, in a 6 to 2 decision yesterday, enlarged on some previous fantasies by ruling that members of the Communist party are so harmless that they can work in defense plants. It knocked out a provision of the 1950 subversive activities control act as "an unconstitutional abridgment of the right of association protected by the 1st amendment."

By the same reasoning, a cell in the United States composed of followers of the Viet Cong and communist North Vietnam would have a "protected" right to employment in American defense facilities and perhaps within the Pentagon itself, notwithstanding the fact we are at war.

Chief Justice Earl Warren, with the kind of reverse logic for which he is celebrated, held that "the statute quite literally establishes guilt by association alone, without any need to establish that an individual's association creates the threat feared by government in proscribing it."

Let's examine a few of the premises implicit in this statement. The Communist is associated with other Communists, and all together are in the service either of the Soviet Union or, if their sympathies lie with Peking, of Red China. Certainly no one in his right mind thinks that their loyalties and sympathies lie with the United States or that they are working for the welfare and security of the United States. They are dedicated to its overthrow by whatever means present themselves—force and violence if attainable, conspiratorial methods if these are the limits of existing choice.

Chief Justice Warren and his associates in the majority seem to be unable to recall that Klaus Fuchs, Dr. Alan Nunn May, Dr. Bruno Pontecorvo, the Rosenbergs, Greenglass, and Sobell were introduced into American and British atomic installations during World War II. With what result? With the result that the secret for constructing nuclear weapons, originally an American monopoly, was delivered in a hurry to Moscow, and that when we went on to build the hydrogen bomb, the spies got that off to Russia almost as soon as it was perfected.

Alger Hiss, Harry Dexter White, and countless other Communists and Soviet spies and agents infiltrated the United States government and passed along every state secret serviceable to our enemies. More recently, the British spies Kim Philby, Guy Burgess, and Donald Maclean, the first a high intelligence officer, the others foreign office operatives with a pipe line into our most confidential operations, passed along knowledge of our most vital secret decisions to Moscow and Peking. It is acknowledged that Red China intervened in Korea because it knew of the restrictions placed on our military command in resisting.

Yet Warren dismisses the whole incontestable record as an appeal to "talismanic incantations." This is the same mental giant who discovered that communism is harmless when only "advocacy" can be proved against its adherents. He wants to wait for an instance of proven overt action before condemning any Communist. Like stealing nuclear secrets, for instance?

Warren and his brethren have refused to uphold the requirements of the subversive activities control that Communists must register with the government. They have held that Communists may have passports to travel to Moscow, Peking, and Hanoi. They have denied the right of a state to inquire whether teachers are Communists. They have knocked out a prohibition against Communists holding office in labor unions. And so, drearily, on and on.

Whose side is this court on?

A Unifying Spirit

Each year in December a web of unity develops around the world that does not exist in comparable degree at any other time. It is a web spun of the gossamer but durable Christmas spirit.

However divergent men's points of view are the rest of the year, in December the Christian world looks in one direction—toward Bethlehem. Whatever the troubles of humanity, they seem a little less grim during the Advent season. This is not because mankind is better behaved at that time of year, but because there is renewed awareness that he can be better if he tries.

Holiday Season Brings No Respite To Pentagon

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is the holiday season for most Americans, but for the Pentagon's civilian and military leaders it marks the patience-straining climax to the 10-month process of shaping the enormous defense budget.

The pressure is always on to economize, but this year the pressures are heavier possibly than ever before because of the escalating costs of the Vietnam war.

The word is out to cut away everything that can be pruned. The chief casualties will be programs and projects that can't be justified on grounds they are furthering the war effort.

Even so, the defense budget may end up in the neighborhood of $75 billion.

Details of the budget pruning are kept secret but some have slipped out. There is a move to cut back training of Army National Guardsmen and Reservists. A freeze on military construction may continue indefinitely. And there is talk of stretchouts in procurement of some equipment.

The budget process begins in March when the Joint Chiefs of Staff approve their Joint Strategic Objectives Plan (JSOP).

This is basic strategy projecting five years ahead and forms a planning guide for developing military forces to meet the anticipated problems of that period.

While drafting the JSOP, the chiefs debate their differences and compromise their views, which are then sent to the secretary of defense.

Then civilian systems analysts prepare "discussion papers" covering such major programs as the size of missile and bomber forces, antisubmarine warfare and the scope of conventional armaments.

The service secretaries and the chiefs then receive a preliminary draft of these papers, reflecting the defense secretary's tentative decisions.

Once again, the military chiefs are given an opportunity to comment and the civilian heads of the Army, Navy and Air Force get in their views.

Using computers, the systems analysts digest these comments and lay the differences before the defense secretary and his top deputy. Other views are cranked in from the Pentagon's research chief on such matters as proposed new weapons.

This takes until about August, and for the next two months the defense secretary makes basic decisions on programs looking ahead five years.

On Oct. 1, the armed services and the various defense agencies send in their estimates for the following year's budget to support the strategic objectives plan of the joint chiefs. All during the fall, the defense secretary renders decisions on both the year-ahead budget and the more generalized five-year plan.

Between Thanksgiving and mid-December, the defense secretary and the joint chiefs go to see the President together to hash out remaining differences.

It is here that generals and admirals who head the services have an opportunity to express their reservations and arguments directly to the President in the presence of the defense secretary. Such a meeting was held at the White House on Dec. 4.

Details of the budget normally are locked in by Christmas. But some of the most controversial are not resolved until just before the budget is printed on the eve of its early January presentation to Congress.

Know-All Critics Spouting 'Truths' Dwell In Unreality

By BRUCE BIONASSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)— In war and politics, both the "inside" strategists and the influential outsiders regularly fall into disagreement. Criticisms of policy and action flow in a constant stream.

No one in this capital who genuinely believes in a free exchange thinks it should be otherwise, or that it is likely to be. But lately you can find some figures of influence here (and not just in the Johnson administration) who think that criticism as a function of democratic process is often misunderstood by those who voice it and misread by those who hear about it.

In internal strategy-making, some complaint is heard against those in key places who merely mutter their criticisms (not wanting to be heard by top officials) and seldom if ever offer alternatives.

Yet, to judge from the comments of some insiders this reporter encounters in various fields, there is more irritation over the internal critic who loudly tries to give his counter-argument the force of proven fact.

Military and diplomatic types may contend that if the United States does some five particular things the war in Vietnam could be successfully concluded in six months to a year. Some may argue that if two particular things had been done in 1966 or 1967, the conflict would be much advanced and might now be over.

Within the camps of the candidates for next year's presidential nominations, some may assert that Gov. George Romney of Michigan would today be riding high if he had taken their suggested specific steps and avoided others—or that Richard Nixon would have the whole thing wrapped up if he had stayed home instead of traveling 85,000 miles over four continents.

The trouble with this brand of what might be called categorical criticism is that too frequently both the critics and their sympathetic listeners inside and outside invest it with a status beyond its worth.

To take an example from the public domain, Britain's World War II hero, General Montgomery, wrote a book year's afterward saying that war could have been ended six months earlier if his advice on strategy had been taken.

The library shelves today are loaded with detailed, intimate histories which reveal the tremendous in-fighting among top U.S., British and other strategists over key World War II decisions. Choices not made can never be made.

To a much-more-limited degree, and mostly within the confines of this country's own effort, the same disputes flared in the Korean war and are raging internally over Vietnam.

Inescapably, however, many of the decisions and categorical criticisms now being laid down over Vietnam will never be accurately appraised because no one will be able to gauge truly their exact contribution to the final result—good or bad.

Similarly, if Richard Nixon should win the GOP nomination next year, who will really be able to say what part was played by each of 100 or so key internal choices made by his strategists? Or what would have happened if opposite choices had been made in 50 of those instances?

War and politics are trial-and-error enterprises. Generals and politicians tend to muddle through to victory or defeat. The man who "knows" the consequences of every action taken or not taken in such complex endeavors lives in a private, unreal world.

Ann Landers:

Appreciates "Real Parents"

By ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a steady reader who was adopted at birth. For the 50th time I've been asked by a "friend" if I ever wonder who my real parents are. How can I get it through their unthinking heads that I am living with my real parents?

Is there some set rule that says parents must go through the motions of childbirth? Where does love come in? I mean no disrespect to my natural mother but I often thank God for putting me into the home of the wonderful people who raised me. It was a lucky break.

I don't think I've said this very well, Ann, but I've been wanting to say it for a long time and I feel like a million dollars now that I've said it. Thanks for the opportunity.—NO STRANGERS LIVE HERE

Dear No Stranger: What a wonderful letter! It sounds as if someone has done a beautiful job of making you feel wanted and loved. Cheers for the whole family.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you published a letter from a woman who was bemoaning the fact that she was over-endowed. (When the salesgirls saw her coming, they used to sigh, "Good grief, here comes old D-cup!")

You answered by telling her about a survey made in your office which revealed that 10 out of 11 girls said they would rather have too much than too little. Surveys don't help the woman whose bra straps cut into her shoulders like knives because they are carrying such a load. Surveys don't help the unfortunate girl who can't wear sweaters or scoop neck dresses or clingy fabrics and is called by nicknames you couldn't print in your column.

Why didn't you tell the woman who wrote that the super-blessed females can now be helped by surgery? The operation is not dangerous. The surgeon merely removes the excess fatty tissue and the woman emerges with normal measurements.

So many problems are insoluble. When one comes along that can be solved, I should think you'd be happy to pass the word.—BEEN THERE

Dear B.T.: You are right. The surgery you describe has helped many women. I was aware of the procedure and I should have suggested it. My apologies to all whose cup runneth over.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the teen-age boy who signed himself Pressure Cooker was especially interesting to me.

When our son Bob was 14 he came to me and said he didn't know what to do about his "terrible temper." Bob expressed himself much in the same way as the boy who wrote. He described his uncontrollable feelings of anger and confessed that he had once kicked the dog because someone had been nasty to him at school.

I bought a big rubber barrel at the hardware store and told Bob that whenever he got mad to go to the basement and kick the barrel.

It worked wonders, Ann. "Kicking the barrel" became a family affair. When my husband and I had a disagreement we would go down to the basement together and kick the barrel. There were times when that barrel did the job of two marriage counselors!

Our "little boy" is married now, and when we asked him

DECLARES ISRAEL STRUGGLES AT THREE

CHICAGO (AP) — Maj. Gen. Itzhak Rabin, chief of staff of the Israeli armed forces, said Wednesday his country is involved in three struggles simultaneously and cannot afford to lose any of them.

He described them as economic, social and defense problems. Rabin made his remarks at a meeting of Capital for Israel, Inc., an affiliate of the Israel bond drive. The drive is promoting private investment of capital in Israel.

Rabin explained that the percentage of Israel's budget set aside for military use is larger than that of any other nation.

Earlier in the day, Rabin was made an honorary citizen of Chicago. He also was given a plaque symbolic of honorary citizenship.

Mayor Richard J. Daley said: "This plaque is given you with all the love and admiration that the people of Chicago feel for your country and what it stands for." several months. But it was nearly double the total reported the week before.

The highest total of allied dead this year was in one week of May, when 628 men were killed. Statistics are not accurate for such previous years as 1964 and 1965, when the South Vietnamese were sometimes losing whole battalions in bloody battles. However, last week's losses were certainly among the highest since that period, when the government's strength was at low ebb.

The military losses were paralleled by the highest recorded civilian toll of the war, 232 dead. This included 114 Montagnard villagers slain in the Viet Cong massacre at the village at Dakson, but U.S. officials have estimated the death toll there probably was around 200.

The war communiques today reported more isolated, deadly battles with little apparent pattern. There was fighting along the Cambodian frontier and in the northern provinces below the Demilitarized Zone, coupled with isolated Viet Cong assaults, shelling and the sabotage of a bridge on the Saigon-Dalat highway.

Battle reports listed continuing heavy Communist losses, 30 killed in one fight, 25 in another and 30 in another.

Associated Press Correspondent Robert Ohman reported troops of the Americal division were being engaged today on the coastal lowlands of Quang Tin Province, in the north. About 30 Communist soldiers had been killed in the developing action, Ohman said, and a battalion of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division was attempting an envelopment with the aid of heavy air and artillery support.

In Saigon, Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky said the South Vietnamese government would soon announce one-day cease-fires for Christmas and New Year's and a two-day truce during Tet, the Vietnamese lunar new year at the end of January.

The Viet Cong announced Nov. 18 that it would observe three-day cease-fires at Christmas and New Year's and a seven-day truce at Tet. Ky said the government announcement would come "in a few days."

Along the Cambodian border in the central highlands, high-altitude B52 bombers laid down a saturation raid about a mile from the frontier facing the American redoubt at Dak To, blasting at North Vietnamese infiltrators threatening American encampments in the vital region.

Only a few hours before the bombers unloaded upward of 150,000 pounds of bombs on suspected Red trails southwest of Dak To, Communist mortars fired 55 quick rounds, killed three Americans and wounded 12 at an artillery position guarding Dak To.

Throughout the night, Air Force twin-engine Dragonships circled the jungle area, dropping strings of flares to illuminate any enemy attempt at surprise attack.

The new B52 raid some 280 miles northeast of Saigon was the fourth in a renewed effort to hamper Red infiltration by saturation bombing along the frontier. The raids have been hitting closer than ever before.

Oregon Gov. Tom McCall, who backs Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the presidency, predicted in Salem, Ore., the New Yorker will eventually emerge as a candidate and win the GOP nomination.

McCall said he thinks Rockefeller might become a candidate in June—after the primary elections. Rockefeller has maintained he isn't and won't become a candidate.

Rhode Island Gov. John H. Chafee, chairman of the Republican Governors Association, charged Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., with harboring hostility toward the 26 GOP governors. Chafee was reacting to the assertion by Laird, chairman of the House Republican conference, that the governors sacrificed their influence by not backing a single candidate for the party nomination.

can Union office in Buenos Aires "after a thorough investigation revealed the misuse of funds contributed by the Argentine government to the National Committee on the Alliance for Progress and which he received as a member of that committee." Mora said OAS funds were not involved.

Transfer of Jose Salinas, Pan American Union office director in San Jose, Costa Rica, to Washington after numerous overdraws in accounts, Mora said a probe is under way to determine if any money was misused.

—Instigation of an audit of OAS activities in the Dominican Republic which Mora said were being financed from the unspecified remnants of $57 million contributed by the U.S. Agency for International Development after the Dominican crisis of April 1965. Sources indicated very small sums were involved.

The liquor incident described by sources involved perhaps 100 or more OAS staff personnel who flew to Punta del Este, Uruguay, for the Latin summit conference last April 12-14.

Each staff member was given money along with his airline ticket to buy three bottles of Scotch whisky at the tax-free sales room in Kennedy International Airport, New York.

The whisky was destined for an OAS reception at the conference, but the reception never was held. At the last minute, sources said, the OAS staff held its own party with the OAS-financed liquor.

Cambodia

—Haiphong, North Vietnam's principal port, shouldn't be allowed to continue processing Communist war materials. There was no specific word on whether the subcommittee felt the port should be bombed or mined.

The group also called for additional South Vietnamese troops to be trained and equipped.

In other war-related developments:

—Officials at a State Department briefing said this country would have the sympathetic understanding of major world capitals if it gave U.S. forces permission to pursue Communist troops into Cambodia.

They added there's no plan to attack Cambodia but that if incidents occurred near her border during "hot pursuit" actions, such incidents would be disturbing but nevertheless undisturbed by governments friendly to this country.

—Canadian Prime Minister Lester Pearson said he's sure the United States knows Canada would have "grave reservations" if U.S. forces pursued Viet Cong into Cambodia. Canada's position is that this would risk widening the war with other powers getting involved, Pearson told the House of Commons.

—At the White House, President Johnson called in newsman to interview Air Force Col. Daniel James Jr., of Phoenix, Ariz., who flew 78 combat missions over North Vietnam. Evans said American pilots don't like bombing pauses "because we catch hell when we go back." He said North Vietnamese air defenses are stronger after each pause.

—The State Department announced creation of a medal for American civilians who work for the U.S. government in Vietnam for at least a year.

—Gov. John J. McKeithen said in New Orleans that Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York, J. William Fulbright of Arkansas and Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota help the North Vietnamese by opposing President Johnson's Vietnam war policy.

scale discussions of the Greek crisis — a discussion that could have split NATO.

Denmark's Foreign Minister Hans Tabor was under domestic pressure to express his country's disapproval of the Greek military regime, but Foreign Secretary George Brown of Britain persuaded him to hold off raising the issue pending clarification of the situation in Athens.

Secretary-General Manlio Brosio said, however, that some muted expressions of concern were heard within the NATO Council. But he added most of the real discussion of the Greek crisis took place in conference corridors. NATO, by its rules, is bound to keep out of the internal affairs of its member states, he added.

Italian Foreign Minister Amintore Fanfani, Dutch Foreign Minister Joseph Luns and U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk conferred on the Greek crisis today, an Italian spokesman said, adding that Fanfani "insisted on the danger of seeing a nondemocratic country in the alliance." The spokesman said, however, that Fanfani does not now want to take any initiative in the situation.

Rusk, according to American sources, was avoiding saying anything that would indicate Washington's approval or disapproval of the coup or effort. Rusk also met privately with Greek Foreign Minister Panayiotis Pipinelis.

The flurry of out of session contacts on the dramatic Greek developments came as ministers were closing off their two-day meeting with final drafting of a communique.

SS Increase

In the face of Mansfield's continuing appeals, however, Long said he was willing to have a motion entered to reconsider the vote by which the bill had been passed.

In doing so, he noted he would be in position at any time to table the motion to reconsider. Thus he would be able to cut off any filibuster since the motion would not be debatable.

Only after agreement was reached to vote at 11 a.m. Friday did he consent to have the passage of the bill rescinded and set for a second vote.

And Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., one of the critics of the welfare provisions, said he had "no intention to conduct a filibuster."

But he and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., said lowering welfare benefits could cause trouble in riot-scarred cities next summer.

The House okayed the compromise Wednesday on a 338-3 vote after a Senate-House conference committee restored welfare-tightening provisions. The Senate had previously voted to junk or liberalize these provisions as well as to raise Social Security cash benefits.

As passed by the House, the bill would raise benefits for all recipients by at least 13 percent. The monthly minimum would go from $44 to $55 and the maximum would go from $142 to $160.50. And a recipient with a wife 65 or over would get a 50 percent increase in the basic payment.

Once the full effect of the bill is accomplished over several years, a retired couple could get as much as $323 a month.

Social Security taxes also would go up, with a maximum increase of $52.80 a year for those earning more than $6,600. The taxes would be upped the same amounts for employers and there would be additional increases for both in future years.

The increased benefits for 24 million Americans on Social Security rolls would be effective with checks received next March 3.

ment through the Pentagon. A possible reason was the ugly nature of the weapon.

The new artillery round was first sent to the war zone on a test basis but is expected to become a standard ammunition item. It still bears its experimental designation of XM546.

Army officials say the round can be used either for close-in defensive fire or conventional direct fire.

It works this way: The round is fired into the air by a propelling charge, then explodes in flight projecting thousands of shafts specially made to fly nose-first. A fuse on the projectile allows commanders to set the distance at which the dart package bursts.

Each shaft weighs 8 grains. The entire round weighs 28 pounds and is slightly over 34 inches long. Its fuse begins ticking away as the projectile spins out the artillery tube.

tional Association for the Advancement of Colored People said the council's action was a "terrible defeat" for the city's Negroes.

Wayne A. Bernhagen, president of the National Civic Alliance, a coalition of groups opposed to open housing, promised counter moves, but declined to elaborate.

"Tokenism and crumbs" was the description given the ordinance by The Rev. James E. Groppi, a white Roman Catholic priest, and adviser to the Milwaukee Youth Council of the NAACP. The council has demonstrated for 108 consecutive days in a protest that has triggered sporadic violence.

"We'll continue demonstrating until we get our rights," said Henry L. Walters, a Youth Council leader. "If necessary, we'll go longer than five years."

The Youth Council wants an ordinance without exemptions. The ordinance signed by Mayor exempts owner-occupied dwellings and those of four or fewer rental units.

Less than 24 hours after Constantine called Wednesday on his people to revolt against the ruling colonels in Athens, troops and armored carriers that had ringed the junta headquarters in the Parliament building, were removed. However, armed guards continued to stand outside defense headquarters on the outskirts of the capital.

Greece had been reported siding with the king, but the only reported fighting on the mainland was at Eleftheria air force base southwest of Athens. Two army captains attempting to board a plane there for northern Greece were reported shot by troops loyal to the government, and clashes between air force and army units followed. Two buildings caught fire in the fighting.

Fighting also was reported on the Greek island of Crete, scene of the only armed resistance to the junta's takeover eight months ago.

Reports said the king was with the 3rd Armored Army Corps, based in the north, when he appealed to the nation to rebel. Athens Radio said today the commander of the corps, Gen. George Peridis, was among three army generals arrested by the junta.

Widespread arrests of right-wing politicians also were reported in Athens.

The capital was calm today, and people hurried to work as usual. But the government ordered all banks and the stock exchange closed to avert financial panic.

killed in combat last week. South Vietnamese military headquarters also reported 864 wounded, another high for this year, and 59 missing. These figures compared to 286 killed, 791 wounded and 49 missing in the previous week.

The number of government troops killed last week surpassed the previous highs for both South Vietnamese and American forces. The previous high for government troops killed in a seven-day period this year was 357 in the week ended March 18. The previous record for government forces wounded was 843 in the week ended Sept. 9. The weekly high for Americans killed in combat this year was 337 in the week ended May 20.

The number of Communist troops reported killed nearly doubled last week over the previous week.

Paraplegic Determined To Return To College

By LARRY KRAMP
Associated Press Writer
URBANA, Ill. (AP) — Victor Hernandez was determined to return to college.

But he faced some physical hurdles before the University of Illinois would accept him for graduate study.

It wasn't a question of his undergraduate grades or knowledge of civil engineering, his major field.

Hernandez was told he would have to lose 35 pounds; he would have to meet rigid standards for transporting, dressing and otherwise providing for himself.

Hernandez, 25, is a paraplegic who moves about in a wheelchair. He wants a master's degree so he can renew a teaching career which was interrupted more than two years ago by a diving accident that left him with a spinal severance.

When he first applied at the University of Illinois nearly two years ago, Hernandez was denied admission because he did not meet standards of the university's Rehabilitation Center.

He was told that he was not proficient enough in caring for his personal needs. And he was 35 pounds overweight—by the center's standards—which made it difficult for him to move his body weight with his arms.

When Hernandez applied again in September, he had overcome his admission hurdles. Now he is enrolled in the university's graduate civil engineering program and Rehabilitation Center, and he's trying to make the grade like other students.

Hernandez, son of Felix Hernandez of the Bronx, N.Y., is one of 179 students—114 in wheelchairs—enrolled in the center. The enrollment includes 20 blind students; 22 disabled by cerebral palsy; 42 with spinal injuries; one deaf, and 65 polio victims.

Like other disabled students at the university, Hernandez was given a time-and-motion test before he was admitted.

A time record is kept on the time needed by an applicant to shower, dress, transfer from bed to wheelchair and travel from dormitory to bus.

Charles D. Elmer, supervisor of physical therapy and functional training, explained that the times for each function are added to see how early a student must arise to get to his first class in the morning.

Recalling his earlier rejection, Hernandez said: "I thought I was ready. I could brush my teeth. It had taken me five months to learn to write again. But Mr. Elmer cut me to pieces. However, 900 other paraplegics were going to the university, so if they could make it, I could."

While the center's standards are rigid, they are based on an admission policy aimed at making the handicapped student self-reliant and confident.

"We demand they live and function and meet the same problems as other students," said Timothy Nugent, director of the center.

"The whole purpose of our program for 20 years has been to make it possible for the severely disabled to attend college with dignity and to have an opportunity to participate in and experience all those things which are part of college life and common to all other students," he said.

More than 1,000 disabled students have participated in the center's programs, and degrees have been awarded to 423. Nearly all graduates have been placed in jobs which Nugent said pay an average of $7,500 a year.

The center's graduates have found a wide variety of jobs. Nugent said that 18 are professors at major universities. Others have gone into such diverse fields as agriculture, medicine and housekeeping.

Youths Preparing To Become Clergymen Go To Same Classes

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The young men go to the same classes, use the same resource books, study under the same noted professors, take the same exams. They're Roman Catholics, Lutherans, Methodists and others, preparing to become clergymen.

Instead of getting their seminary training in sequestered denominational schools, as would have been the case until recently, they're getting it side by side in a comprehensive religious environment.

That transformation is spreading rapidly and widely today on the religious landscape of America.

Seminaries are "moving out of isolation into a new corporate life," says the Rev. Dr. John Coburn, dean of Episcopal Theological School, Cambridge, Mass., part of a new joint alliance of seven schools being formed in Boston.

The new academic ties in Boston, announced this week and involving four Protestant and three Roman Catholic theological institutions, is only the latest of a proliferating series of such moves across the country.

As frequently assessed, the trend points to a gradual coalescing of Christianity on the intellectual front—whatever the denominations.

Broad interseminary confederations is the rising new pattern, in contrast to the separate chains of seminaries long maintained by the denominations.

Often the interlocking coalitions are in connection with a major university, as is the case in Boston, where Harvard University's Divinity School is part of the new seven-school cooperative venture—the Boston Theological Institute.

Present social conditions "require a fully ecumenical training and strategy," says the Rev. Dr. Walter G. Muelder, dean of Methodism's Boston University Theological School, and chairman of the new project.

It promises to become "the foremost center of theological learning and training in the Western Hemisphere," says a special consultant for it, the Rev. Dr. Henry P. Van Dusen, former president of America's oldest interdenominational school, New York's Union Theological Seminary.

The Rev. Dr. Charles L. Taylor, retiring director of the American Association of Theological Schools, says "clusters" of seminaries are gathering around universities in scores of other cities.

The ablest, best qualified theology students, he says, are no longer content with "seminaristic" seminaries, but want a fuller religious and social context of learning.

"Where the Catholic-Protestant gulf is bridged, hopes for the future of theological education are brightest," he says.

Veteran Food Writers Offer Epicurean Fare

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

This year cook-from-scratch cooks have excellent cookbooks from which to choose. Three veteran food writers have offered up epicurean fare:

"James Beard's Menus for Entertaining" (Dell, 95 cents). This paperback edition of a hardcover book published a few years ago is a boon. For here the incomparable Jim Beard has given some of his favorite menus and recipes for the special delectation of hosts and their guests. Because the recipes were tried in the Beard cooking school, they include many helpful details. There are suggestions for breakfasts (early and late), luncheons and dinners (informal and formal) and for buffets and cocktail parties.

Any cook who is already devoted to the Beard repertoire and has not yet encountered "Menus for Entertaining" would do well to ask Santa for this volume.

"Michael Field's Culinary Classics and Improvisations" (Knopf, $6.95) reflects the cuisines of a number of countries. The cookbook's theme is main dishes—from roast turkey to poached salmon—and what can be done with the left-overs. A former concert pianist, Field switched fields some years ago and now conducts cooking classes in New York. He has gone to great pains to tell cooks everything they need to know to duplicate his dishes successfully.

"Chocolate!" by Nika Standen Hazelton (Simon and Schuster, $2.50) is an attractive book containing 50 recipes for chocolate-flavored cakes, frostings, pies, cookies, desserts and dessert sauces, drinks and confections. In addition, there is a brief description of the different kinds of chocolate and tips on how to use the varieties. Along with a chocolate sampler, assembled by the donor, this book would make a delightful holiday gift. One of Mrs. Hazelton's delicious recipes follows.

NIKA STANDEN HAZELTON'S CRINKLE CUPS

8 to 10 paper cups (3 inches to 4 inches in diameter) as used for cupcakes
8 squares (8 ounces) semisweet chocolate
Chocolate curls (see below)
Place the paper cups in a muffin pan. Put the chocolate into the top of a double boiler over hot (not boiling) water. Melt the chocolate partially. Remove it from the heat and stir until the chocolate is completely melted (this keeps it glossy.) With a very small spoon (demitasse spoon) or a pastry brush, line the insides of the paper cups with the melted chocolate, coating all the folds evenly. (If the chocolate hardens, soften it over hot water.) Refrigerate the muffin pan until ready to use. At serving time, have filling for cups ready. With cool hands, quickly peel the paper off the cups. Spoon in desired filling and sprinkle with chocolate curls. Serve immediately. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Note: The cups may be filled before the beginning of the meal and refrigerated until dessert time. Lemon sherbet, or any ice cream that blends with chocolate, whipped cream, custard, etc., make excellent fillings.

Chocolate curls: Have chocolate at room temperature and use a vegetable parer or sharp knife to cut chocolate into curls.

First Female Golfer

Mary Queen of Scots was the first known woman golfer. Educated in France, she called the boy who carried her clubs a cadet, giving the word the French pronunciation. From that came our word "caddy."

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The brilliant colors of fall foliage are caused, says The World Almanac, when, in early September, a layer of cells forms at the base of each leaf, blocking the flow of water and nutrients from the twig. The leaf's green chlorophyll bleaches away, revealing other pigments that were masked all summer by the dominant green.

Rev. and Mrs. Leroy Cunningham

BEARDSTOWN—The Rev. and Mrs. Leroy Cunningham, formerly of Beardstown, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary Saturday, December 16th, with open house at their home in Chrisman, Illinois. Rev. Cunningham was pastor of the Nazarene church here for nine years. He is now retired but serves as a supply pastor and for special services.

The Cunninghams have a son, Glenn, and two grandchildren, who live in Michigan. Rev. Cunningham was Zone chairman for the Jacksonville Zone of the Church of the Nazarene while living in Beardstown and also served in other capacities at District Camp grounds in Mechanicsburg.

Rev. Cunningham is remembered as the "watermelon server," as during camp meetings he always cut and served melons which came from the Philip Krohe farm.

Southern Green Beans

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
AP Food Editor

The younger the snap beans, the better they'll taste. Sautéed Steak Potato Sticks Southern Green Beans Salad Spanish Cream Beverage SOUTHERN GREEN BEANS 4 slices bacon

1 pound snap beans
1 cup boiling water
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper to taste
In a 10-inch skillet over low heat (so bacon fat stays as white as possible), cook bacon until crisp; crumble bacon; reserve fat. Cut ends from beans; scrub in cold water; cut crosswise into 1-inch slanted pieces. In a medium saucepan, bring beans, water and salt to a boil; cover and boil (lifting cover a few times to help keep beans green) until tender-crisp—about 10 minutes. Drain. Mix in pepper to taste, crumbled bacon and 1 tablespoon of the bacon fat. Reheat if necessary. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

CONCERT DEC. 17 AT NEW BERLIN

NEW BERLIN — The vocal department of New Berlin High School will present a Christmas concert at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Dec. 17 in the high school gymnasium. The program, "Poems and Prayers of Christmas," will be directed by Fred J. Wassell.

Vocal numbers include: "Quem Vidistis Pastores"; "Do You Hear What I Hear?"; "I Wonder As I Wander" with Bobette Pfeffer as soloist; and "Jesus The Christ Is Born." Soloists Bobette Pfeffer, Lynda Nethery, Paula Harms and Mary Braker will be featured in "Lost In The Night."

Other songs by the choir will be "Now Let Us All Praise God and Sing," "Sanctus," "The Angel Gabriel" and "Harvest Song."

The program will be narrated by Bonita Prince and Gary Prince. Choir accompanists will be Lois Tolliver and Beverly Arnold.

The grade school band, under the direction of Eugene Haas, will open the program. A free will offering will be taken at the door.

SACRED TO INDIANS
Plains Indians considered sacred both the peace pipe ceremony and the sources of the soft, red pipestone. Hostile tribes met in amity on the common ground of the quarries.

SOCRATES' POISON
Source of the poison potion drunk by Socrates has never been positively identified. Historians generally accept the roots of the European poison hemlock as the source.

Typifies Rags - To - Riches Cockney Success Story

By GRANVILLE WATTS
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Professor Henry Higgins thought he was doing Eliza Doolittle a favor in "My Fair Lady" when he taught her to clean up her Cockney accent.
But if Eliza were being groomed for stardom today, she couldn't do better than to cash in on that salty London Lingo. "For a Cockney there is no way to go but up," said actor Michael Caine.
Quite a few of them have been going up lately.
Caine, 34-year-old Cockney movie star of "Alfie" and "The Ipress File," now gets $250,000 and upwards per picture.

Another Cockney actor, Terence Stamp, is not far behind, and Tommy Steele is a Broadway favorite. On the fashion model front a Cockney model called Twiggy sets the pace.
It seems Cockneys have not so much arrived as taken over.
Actor Caine is typical of the rags-to-riches Cockney success story.
The son of a London charwoman and fish market porter, Caine worked as a freight handler and pneumatic drill operator in the streets before he got his break into acting.

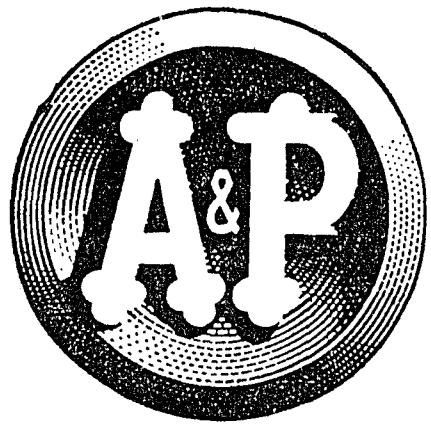

"Cockneys have the strongest sense of survival of any people in the world, and an actor needs that," he said. "They also have a sense of humor. I've never met a pompous Cockney."
Stamp, who starred in "The Collector" and "Far From the Madding Crowd," has this to say of the Cockney mates he left behind in the East End:
"They're scared of nothing except of being told they're putting on airs and acting posh. And that stops them from trying to do anything. They're smart and good looking and sharp and tough as nails. But the nits waste their lives because they don't know that there's so much lying around waiting to be picked up by the boy with a bit of talent."

Another Cockney, Nigel Davies, met a thin girl called Lesley Hornby working in a London beauty parlor and turned her into Twiggy.
Davies renamed himself Justin de Villeneuve.
"I wouldn't try to talk posh," said Twiggy. "I tried it once in a mirror. It looked so funny."
"Honestly I dunno how much money I've made," she said. "All the models have been so kind to me. I watch them and try to learn. But I don't suppose I'll do it as long as some of 'um do. I mean there's one girl in Paris, and she's 36. I couldn't do it for 15 years. I'd want to get married and have little twiggers."

Terry Downes, former world middleweight boxing champion, now has a big stake in a $1.4 million betting shop business, but retains a Cockney accent so thick you could cut it with a knife.
Downes' sharp sense of humor, in or out of the ring, is legendary.
"Cockneys give the needle to a lot of provincials, or foreigners, because they chat quick and can spot a chance to make a few bob," Downes said.
The origin of the word "cockney" is lost in the mists of time, but is believed to have been invented by country folk and applied to town-bred people ignorant of country ways.
According to tradition a Cockney is someone born within the sound of Bow bells.
And although you'll have to search hard to find an Eliza

Doolittle selling flowers, you can still hear her accent echoed in the chatter of chirpy office girls.
The accent is characterized by f's instead of t's, as in "fing." Father becomes "farv-er." About becomes "abaht!" and daily is turned into "dyly."
"The Cockney dialect is about 1,000 years old and is still alive and growing," said Julian Franklyn, who has compiled a Cockney dictionary.
"Year in, year out, it enriches standard English, not with the frozen words of scholarship and science, but with words rich in personality, words informed by mockery, optimism, cynicism and humor."
Franklyn's recipe for speaking cockney:
Cinch the teeth, part the lips slightly, draw them back taut against the gums and speak.

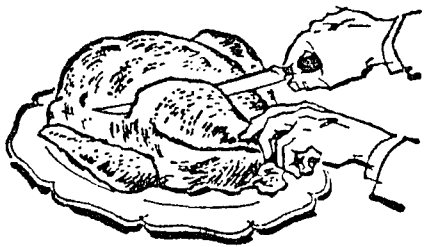

Jacksonville Courier, Jacksonville, Ill., Dec. 14, 1967 9
Franklin Class To Sing Carols For Shut-Ins
FRANKLIN—The Willing Workers class of the Franklin Christian church has elected the following officers for 1968:
President, James R. Campbell; vice president, Gregg Spradlin; secretary, Mrs. Nancy Campbell; treasurer, Mrs. Carol Ankrom; teacher, Robert Foster and substitute, Charles Ankrom.
Saturday, Jan. 20, is the annual chili supper. Tickets will soon be available from any class member.
The young people will be Christmas caroling Monday, Dec. 18, from 7 to 9 p.m. We would appreciate the names of any who are ill or shut-in being given to the class.
The class will be taking part in the Christmas Eve service at the church at 7:30 p.m. on December 24. Everyone is invited to attend.
SMALLEST BIRD
The bee hummingbird of Cuba is not only the smallest hummingbird but the smallest feathered creature in the world. Its total length is something over two inches.
Examples of the wood carving art found in Egypt were made about 3,000 years before Christ.

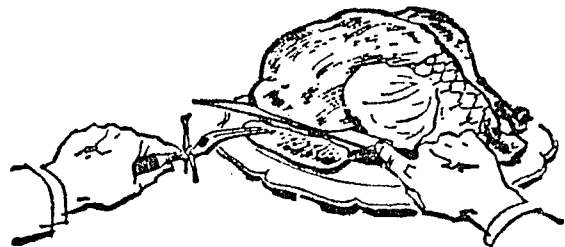

something for "Harry the Hacker"

Lots of us are known as, "Harry the Hacker," because of what we do to a Christmas Turkey.

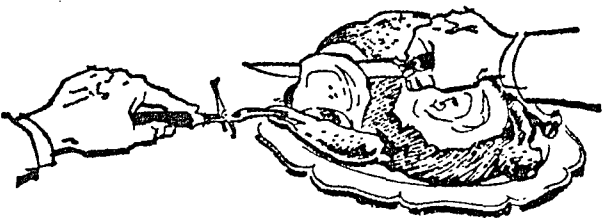

The secret to classic carving is a very sharp, thin-bladed knife. Allow bird to sit in roasting pan 15 to 30 minutes. It will slice cleaner and the juices will be absorbed, too. Follow these simple directions:

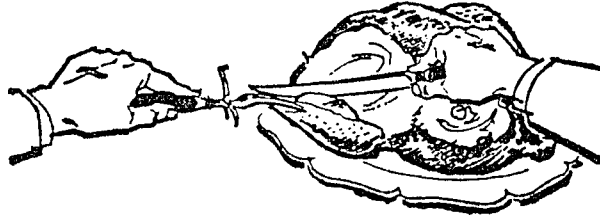

1. Cut off leg by drawing knife deeply between leg and body through hip joint. Press leg away from body and remove.

2. Before slicing breast, make a deep horizontal cut to bone in breast, just above the wing.

3. Beginning about halfway up breast, slice downward with straight even strokes until slices fall free at cut.

4. Cut off wing through shoulder joint. Cut off wing tip. When one side is clean, turn platter and carve other side.

If your Harry's a Hacker, cut this out and put it in his Christmas Stocking. One final thing you can do for "Harry"... buy your turkey at A&P.

Our Super-Right Turkeys are all Grade "A" birds. Harry will carve such beautiful slices you'll want to rechristen him, "Sam the Surgeon."

When this year's rubber bridge championships started at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas, Sands vice-president Sandy Waterman told us that he hoped the winners would be ordinary bridge players. He said, "Of course, you experts have an advantage. If the cards break even in a match your skill should win for you, but you will be playing rubber bridge against other rubber bridge players and I have a hunch maybe some of them will come through and win."

Sandy was right. The winners were Clark Merrit of San Marino and Robert Krost of Pasadena, Calif.

Mr. Merrit is a retired auditor of the California Tax Board, and Mr. Krost is an accountant. They play small stake rubber bridge together and had played a little duplicate back in the '30s. They know nothing of modern expert bidding and play a circa 1933 Culbertson system.

Of course, 1933 Culbertson was a pretty good system. One of its features was the Culbertson four and five no-trump which preceded Blackwood. Mr. Krost's two spade call was a trifle weak by modern standards, but he had a six-card suit and 4½ honor tricks. Mr. Krost's four no-trump showed either two aces plus the high of spades or three aces.

South's five no-trump bid showed two aces whereupon North went to six spades. Mr. Merrit's final bid of seven spades had become a cinch. He knew that Mr. Krost held two aces and the king of spades from the four no-trump bid and spade support from the six-spade bid.

Three rounds of trumps took care of that suit, and dummy still held a trump to ruff the last diamond. Mr. Merrit might have claimed right away, but he actually played the hand that far before showing his cards. You can't be too careful in the final round of any tournament.

Q—The bidding has been:

Pass 4♠ Pass ?

You, South, hold:
♠ A Q 10 7 6 ♥ 2 ♦ A Q 10 7 6 5 ♣ 3
What do you do now?

A—Bid four no-trump. Your partner should have four spades with you, and the odds are that if you need a finesse in either spades or diamonds it will work. East has opened the bidding while West has done nothing but pass. If your partner shows an ace, you will gamble on a slam.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Instead of bidding four spades, your partner jumps to four hearts over your two spades. What do you do now?

Mostly Use Sense Of Smell

Salmon Fight Way Upstream Each Year

By MIKE DOAN
Associated Press Writer
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — One of nature's most amazing rituals, already gone forever in most of the United States, has been drastically altered by the Northwest's many dams.

For thousands of centuries salmon made their voyages up the nation's rivers to lay their eggs and die.

But when man built water wheels and dumped wastes into water the fish no longer were able to swim in most Eastern rivers and became practically extinct there.

In the less populous Northwest, salmon still are able to hatch in a mountain stream. Driven by some compelling force, they travel down the Columbia River to the ocean, often 1,000 miles away.

The salmon disappear into the vastness of the Pacific Ocean, but from two to six years later, in one of those mysteries that nature creates, they reappear, now full grown.

Desperately, compulsively, at least 1.5 million fish fight their way upstream each year, always seeking the place they themselves were hatched. Biologists say they use a variety of senses to do so, including navigation by the stars. But they mostly use their sense of smell to find their place or origin.

There the female fish lays thousands of eggs. The male covers them with his sperm. Their job done, they wearily start back downstream. They do not complete this journey. They die. But thousands of their offspring make the trip later instead.

All salmon were born this way for thousands of years. But in the past 32 years, 24 dams have been built on the Columbia and Snake rivers, two of the prime sources of Pacific salmon.

The result is that half of the water in the Columbia system is no longer accessible to salmon. More and more of them are produced artificially in hatcheries.

There the female's eggs are removed with a knife. They are dumped in a bucket and a male fish's sperm is poured over them. The eggs are put into water to hatch, and the dead fish are sold for food at state institutions or for fertilizer.

The odds against the newly hatched salmon making it to the ocean are great. At least 8 percent are killed at each dam going through the electric generators. Some of them go through nine dams.

Years later as adults, on the way inland to lay their eggs, they meet many hurdles. First they have to get by the ocean fishermen. The next hurdle is on the lower Columbia near Astoria where fishermen have their nets ready during a strictly controlled fishing season. The Oregon catch alone in the Columbia is worth $3.2 million a year.

Farther upstream the fish are greeted by sports fishermen, and Indian fishermen with gill-nets who do not honor the states' fishing seasons.

The fish again must navigate over dams. Scientists have developed fish ladders that allow the salmon to leap from one level to another in pools of water until they are over the dam. Grand Coulee Dam does not have these, and there will never again be salmon in the upper Columbia, which winds into Canada and down to western Montana.

Millions of dollars have been spent to preserve fish while man builds dams and factories. There was even a taxi service at one dam in the Northwest. It picked up the fish and carried them by truck to another river.

Despite the spending, the salmon run is getting smaller every year in Idaho, even with hatcheries, because of the dams.

One fishery official says this is because the Northwest chose the dams and as a result is in danger of reducing its fish supply.

A biologist said: "You can't expect to raise a nest of robins in your backyard if you chop down your trees."

State Patients To Attend Party At Jersey Church

JERSEYVILLE — On December 13th at 9:30 a.m. the Missionary Society of the First Baptist Church of Jerseyville will entertain a bus load of patients from the Illinois State Hospital in Alton in the fellowship hall of the local church.

The Missionary Society of the church makes a trip once a month to Hickory Cottage at the State Hospital where they entertain the patients and distribute cookies to them.

Certificates of recognition for volunteer services were awarded to the First Baptist Church of this city and the Democrat News at ceremonies last Sunday at the State Hospital in Alton. Mrs. H. Irwin Davis and Mrs. George Church, represented the Jerseyville church at the ceremonies. Mrs. Davis is president of the Mission Society of the church and Mrs. Church is chairman of the Christian Service of the society.

Mrs. Davis accepted the certificate for the newspaper for assisting in keeping the public aware of the program for the mentally ill and in making the public aware of community responsibility in this area.

Mrs. Church accepted the certificate awarded to the Jerseyville First Baptist church. Both certificates bear the signatures of Dr. Abraham Simon M.D., Superintendent of the Alton State Hospital and Harold N. Visotaky, M.D., Director, Illinois Department of Mental Health.

NORTONVILLE CLUB CHRISTMAS PARTY

NORTONVILLE — The Nortonville Community Woman's club held its Christmas meeting Dec. 8 with Mrs. Donald Grinke and Mrs. Lionel Seymour as hostesses.

Mrs. Monroe Chaudoin, president, opened the meeting with a carol and Mrs. Lionel Seymour led the pledge to the flag and club prayer.

After a short business session, an interesting program was presented by Mrs. Donald Grinke and Mrs. Lester Penick. Mrs. Herbert Clayton gave reports on the recent board meeting and state hospital party. During roll call sunshine friends were revealed and new names drawn.

Gifts were exchanged during the social hour and refreshments were served to members, their children and one guest, Mrs. Mary Elliott.

The next meeting will be Jan. 5 with Mrs. Roy Kelly as hostess.

REALLY POLISHES SHOES

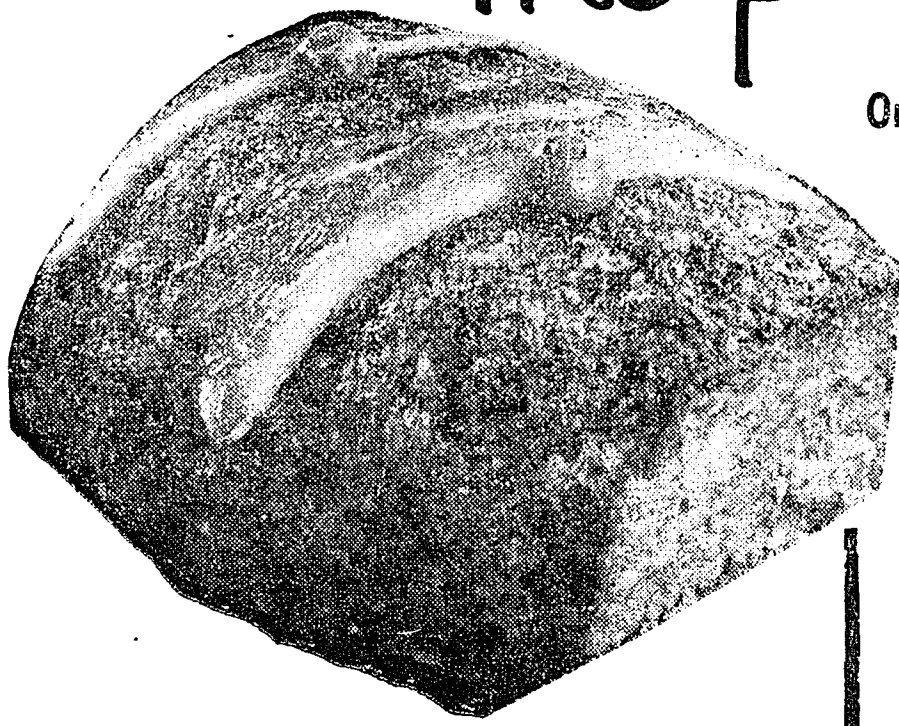

You need never bend or stoop again to get a shine on your shoes. At the flick of a toe switch, a new twin shoe polisher's two yarn brushes will polish a shoe in seconds instead of merely buffing off dust. Good for thousands of shines, the pile buffer is washable in sudsy water.

Criticizes Percy
Action In Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. William R. Anderson, D-Tenn., told the House Wednesday that Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., acted thoughtlessly and unwisely in making an unscheduled helicopter landing in a dangerous area of Vietnam. Anderson, in remarks in the House, did not mention the senator by name, but obviously referred to Percy's narrow escape after he and his party came under mortar and rifle fire at the deserted village of Dakson near the Cambodian border Tuesday. "Did he not realize it was not a good idea, that it even was a breach of etiquette for a legislator to depart from his authorized itinerary?" said Anderson, a World War II naval officer who later commanded the first nuclear submarine, Nautilus, in its history-making transpolar voyage under ice. "His foolhardy action risked not only his own neck but others as well," Anderson said of Percy. "What did he hope to learn?

SANTA SPRUCES UP — KANKAKEE, ILL.: Women customers in a popular Kankakee beauty salon were delighted to find Santa Claus sitting under a dryer as he spruced up for a shopping center visit. Santa's work is seasonal, so it's important to keep up one's appearance. (UPI Telephoto)

Did he want to take pictures? Or was it a headline gambit by an aspirant for higher office?" Percy is listed among possible contenders for the Republican presidential nomination. Anderson said he hopes other members of Congress touring Vietnam will "display a more responsible example."

Work Of John Greenleaf Whittier And That Of Illinois Author John Russel

By ARTHUR THATCHER

JERSEYVILLE — An autographed copy of the complete poems of the Quaker Poet, John Greenleaf Whittier, owned by a Jerseyville resident came to light here this week, and with the discovery of the signature, a number of other interesting factors were unveiled.

According to very old local residents, the poems of Whittier were in great favor in the Central Illinois locality seventy-five years ago, and country school "Readers" that failed to contain some of his work were often rejected by school district directors due to that fact.

Self Critic

The autographed volume found here this week reveals that Whittier was the sharpest critic of his own published works. On one of the frontispages of the volume is a note of apology for some of the poems appearing in the book and couched in the following language: "Note by the Author to the edition of 1857. In these volumes for the first time, a complete collection of my poetical writings has been made. While it is satisfactory to know that these scattered children of my brain have found a home, I cannot but regret that I have been unable, by reason of illness to give that attention to their revision and arrangement, which respect for the opinion of others and my own after thought and experience demand.

"That there are pieces in this collection which I would willingly let die," I am free to confess. But it is too late now to disown them, and I must submit to the inevitable penalty of poetical as well as other sins." There are others intimately connected with the author's life and times which owe their tenacity or vitality to the circumstances under which they were written, and the events by which they were suggested.

"Megg Megone"

"The long poem Megg Megone was in a great measure composed in early life; and it is scarcely necessary to say that its subject is not such as the writer would have chosen at any subsequent period. J. G. W. Amesbury, 18, 3rd month, 1857."

On the inner first frontispice, appears a picture of the Author and beneath this is the autograph "Thine truly, John G. Whittier."

On the opposite page appears the information in bold type: "The complete poetical works of John Greenleaf Whittier. Edition, Boston: Houghton, Mifflin and Company—The Riverside Press, 1881."

"Household" Edition

The term Household Edition was well used, for copies of Whittier's poems appeared in more Central Illinois Homes, ninety years ago than any other writer of the time, with the possible exception of Henry W. Longfellow.

The weekly newspapers of rural areas three quarters of a century ago published long obituaries regarding the deaths of residents of the immediate communities. In such writings much verse often appeared, and stanzas from poems of Whittier frequently appeared in such tributes as well as those of Longfellow.

Another frontispice of the Household Edition owned locally contains copyright information as follows: "Copyright 1848, 1850, 1852, 1856, 1857, 1860, 1863, 1865, 1868, 1870, 1872, 1874, 1876, 1878 and 1881 by Tickner and Fields; Fields Osgood and Co.; James B. Osgood and Co.; and John G. Whittier. All rights reserved."

Not All Poetry

Today, the majority of people regard Whittier as only a writer of poetry, but a copy of McGuffey's Fifth Reader of 1879, owned by the same resident contains no less than two prose articles written by him. They are captioned "The Fish I Didn't Catch," and "Taking Comfort."

The first article, which is broken into nine paragraphs and numbered for the student readers of that era is a story of Whittier's fishing expedition with a bachelor uncle who made his home with the Whittier family.

The second is a story of an autumn walk taken by Whittier along the Tewksbury shore of the Merrimac. He describes in detail the beauty of the area and finally relates his encounter with a drunken man lying amid some of the shrubbery of the locality, too intoxicated to observe or appreciate the beauty of nature about him.

At the time the McGuffey reader was published and in use in many of the district schools of this vicinity, Whittier was still living.

Newspaper Background

A brief notation at the head of one of the articles in the reader contains the following information relative to the author at that time: "John Greenleaf Whittier (b-1801—) was born in Haverhill, Mass. His boyhood was passed on a farm, and he never received a classical education. In 1829, he edited a newspaper in Boston. In the following year, he moved to Hartford, Conn., to assume a similar position.

In 1836, he edited an anti-slavery paper in Philadelphia. Since 1840, he has resided in Amesbury, Mass.

Mr. Whittier's parents were Friends, and he has always held to the same faith. He has written extensively both in prose and verse. As a poet, he ranks among those most highly esteemed and honored by his countrymen. "Snow Bound," published in 1865, is one of the longest and best of his poems.

In the same Fifth Reader, McGuffey, published Whittier's poem: "The Corn Song" which pays tribute to corn as of value greater than the other products of field, tree and vine.

Comparison with a Normal Fifth Reader copyrighted in 1890 reveals no works of Whittier. The Normal Reader appeared in this locality in competition with the McGuffey books.

There is, however, a quotation of a statement purported to have been made by Whittier regarding Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes. The famous physician, university professor and poet was still alive when the reader was published, and, in commenting on Dr. Holmes' good nature and humor, the Reader states: "His humor is like a bracing tonic, and Whittier declares that: "He was born for the laughter cure."

Choice Of Text Books

When the McGuffey and Normal Readers were still in use here seventy years ago, the selection of text books rested in the judgment of the three men composing the Board of Directors of the respective school districts.

After the annual meeting of the directors, their decision relative to text books to be used in their district was referred to the County Superintendent of Schools. The local book store operator was then notified regarding the prospective number of new and second hand books that might be needed with the "opening" of school in the fall. A Jersey county old timer recalled here this week that he had attended when a boy a meeting of the Board of Directors in his district. His father was a member of the board at that time. There was much comparison regarding the merits of the various readers submitted for adoption as a district text book.

Author John Russel

An interesting fact is found in a perusal of the McGuffey Fifth Reader and the Normal Fifth Reader. Both text books contain an article by a Jersey county author of that period entitled "The Venomous Worm." The author is John Russel who published the first newspaper in this locality at Grafton.

A thumb nail sketch regarding Russel appears in the McGuffey Reader preceding The Venomous Worm article. It states "John Russel (b 1793—d 1863) graduated at Middlebury College, Vt., in 1818. He was one time editor of the "Backwoodsman" published at Grafton, Ill., and later of the "Louisville Advocate." He was the author of many tales of western adventure and of numerous essays, sketches, etc. His language is clear, chaste and classical; his style concise, vigorous, and sometimes highly ornate.

Upholds Abstinence

Similar in purpose, Russell's Venomous Worm like Whittier's "Taking Comfort," is a slap at the use of alcoholic beverages.

Russel's crack at the Venomous Worm follows: "Who has not heard of the rattlesnake or copperhead? An unexpected sight of either of these reptiles will make even the lords of creation recoil; but there is a species of worm, found in various parts of this country, which conveys a poison of a nature so deadly that, compared with it, even the venom of the rattlesnake is harmless. To guard our readers against this foe of human kind is the object of this lesson.

This worm varies in size. It is frequently an inch in diameter, but, as it is rarely seen except when coiled, its length can hardly be conjectured. It is of a dull lead color, and generally lives near a spring or small stream of water, and bites the unfortunate people who are in the habit of going there to drink. The brute creation it never molests. They avoid it with the same instinct that teaches the animals of India to shun the deadly cobra.

Several of these reptiles have long infested our settlements, to the misery and destruction of many of our fellow citizens. I have, therefore, had frequent opportunities of being the melancholy spectator of the effects produced by the subtle poison which this worm infuses. The symptoms of its bite are terrible. The eyes of the patient become red and fiery, his tongue swells to an immense size, and obstructs his utterance; and delirium of the most horrid character quickly follows. Sometimes, in his madness, he attempts the destruction of his nearest friends.

Jacksonville Courier, Jacksonville, Ill., Dec. 14, 1967 15
Jacksonville Journal, Jacksonville, Ill., Dec. 15, 1967 15

"Worm of the Still"

If the sufferer has a family, his weeping wife and helpless infants are not infrequently the objects of his frantic fury. In a word, he exhibits to the life, all the detestable passions that rankle in the bosom of a savage; and such is the spell in which his senses are locked, that no sooner has the unhappy patient recovered from the paroxysm of insanity occasioned by the bite, than he seeks out the destroyer for the sole purpose of being bitten again.

I have seen a good old father, his locks as white as snow, his step slow and trembling, beg in vain of his only son to quit the murking place of the worm. My heart bled when he turned away for I knew the fond hope that his son would be the "staff of his declining years," had supported him through many a sorrow.

Youths of America would you know the name of the reptile? It is called the worm of the still.

Poker

The game of poker, whose ancestry dates to at least 1526, derived its name about 1700 from the German word "pochen," which means "to bluff." The modern form of the game was developed in the early part of the 19th century around New Orleans, when the name was anglicized.

Electronic Car Will Have Road Test In '68

DETROIT (AP) — Development of an electronic automobile, shaped like an arrowhead and which its builders say will have a cruising speed of 50 miles per hour and a range of 150 miles without recharging, was announced Tuesday.

American Motors and Gulton Industries of Metuchen, N.J., disclosed details of the joint project.

An operational model of the electronic car will be road tested within a year, reported Roy D. Chapin Jr., chairman of the board of American Motors. No price was announced.

A prototype of the small, three-passenger commuter car was unveiled at a news conference. It is called the "Amtron" and has a newly developed long-life Gulton lithium battery system.

"This joint project is the result of the development of this new power system. It could eliminate many problems which to this point have made electric-type cars impractical," Chapin said.

Dr. Leslie K. Gulton, president of Gulton Industries, said "for the first time in a half-century, the gasoline-burning automobile is about to share the road with an electrically powered car whose performance needs no apologies."

"We make no claim that the forthcoming electronic vehicle is about to put conventional cars out of business. What we do say is that we have made considerable strides toward the creation of an electronic car with characteristics far superior to any that have thus far been seen," he said.

The new lithium-nickel fluoride battery system is lighter than batteries used in other experimental cars, Gulton said.

Ford and General Motors recently showed electric car projects on which they are experimenting.

Gulton said batteries made from lithium, the world's lightest metal, can store 10 times as much energy as conventional lead-acid batteries of the same size.

He said the batteries are expected to provide acceleration from zero to 50 mph in 20 seconds.

Gulton said the complete system can be fully recharged about 1,000 times over a period of three years. The batteries can be recharged in four hours.

The prototype has an overall length of 85 inches, a width of 69 1/2 inches and a height of 46 inches. It has a wheelbase of 60 inches and a tread of 60 inches. It has eight-inch wheels.

WHITE HALL VFW AUXILIARY HAS PARTY FOR VETS

WHITE HALL — The VFW Auxiliary to Post No. 7684 held a Christmas party Dec. 6 for 54 resident patients at Veterans Hospital, Jacksonville.

The men were served cupcakes, sandwiches and beverage. Each received a package of cigarettes and a Christmas treat of candy and fruit.

Mrs. Harriet Printy and Mrs. Phyllis Dawdy were co-chairmen for the party. Others attending were Wanda Edwards, president, Pasty Tucker, Mrs. Harry Sweetin, Dona Fisher, Marge Tribble and Frances Davis. The Auxiliary was given hospital credit of $301.94.

Class Suppers
The Gleaners Class of the First Baptist Church met Dec. 7 for a Smorgasbord supper at Day's Cafe, followed by a gift exchange, and disclosure of secret pals for the year. Mrs. Marvin Early is the retiring class president. Mrs. Clarence Dawdy Jr., the president for the ensuing year.

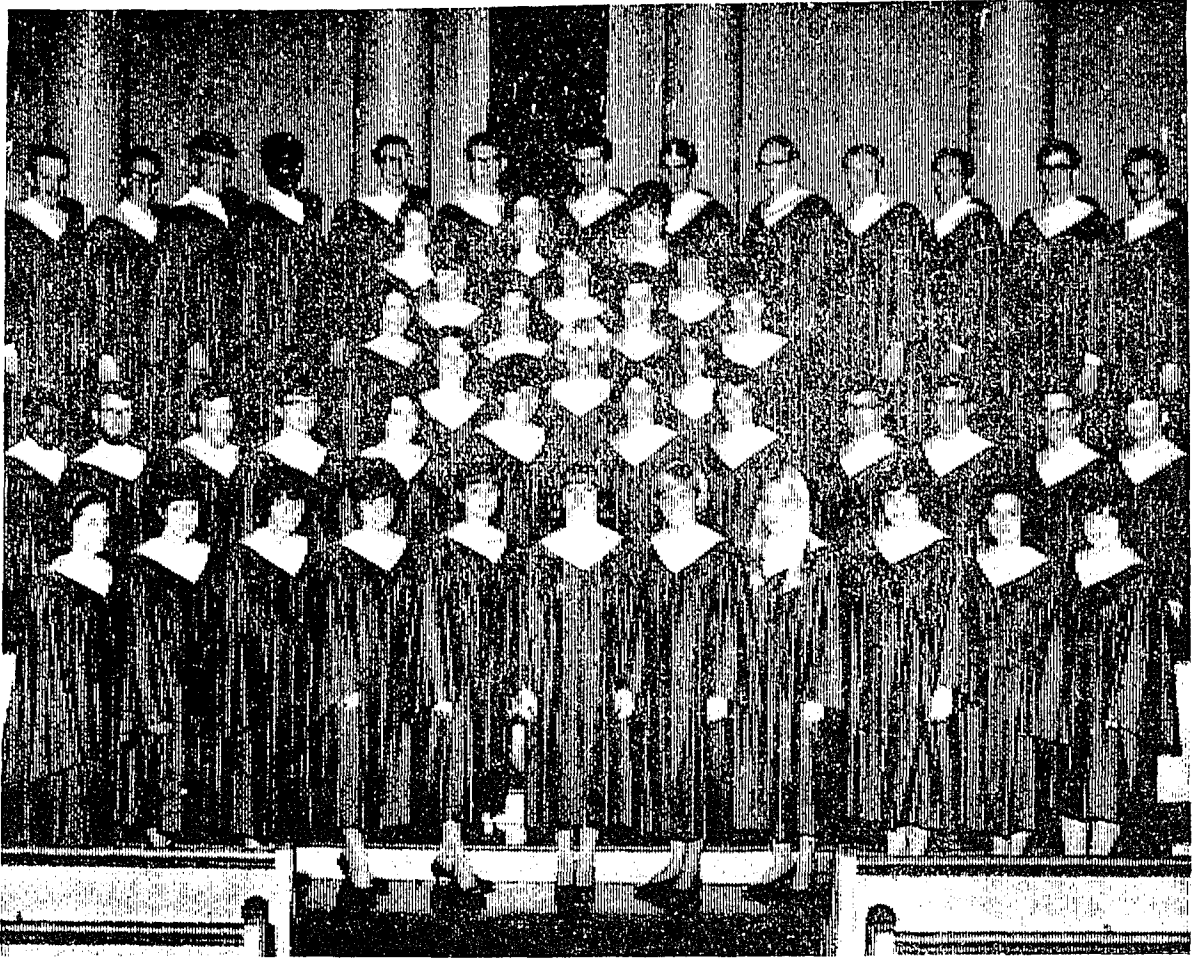

The Loyal Girls Class enjoyed supper at the Ranch House, Jacksonville, Dec. 11 returning to the home of Mrs. Bill Pruitt for a gift exchange and refreshments.

Members of American Legion Auxiliary, including Melba Hoesman, Ivamae Dickerson, Hazel Deavers and Pansy McCarthy packed 200 Christmas boxes of candy which will be sent to the Veterans Hospital, Jacksonville as a gift from members of American Legion Post. No. 70.

Admit To Being A 'Bad One'
And Critics Are Silenced

By MURIEL LAWRENCE
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: My husband is an only child. Since his father's death two years ago, his mother is at him all the time for neglecting her. Though we spend as much time with her as we can, it is never enough. As soon as the time comes to say goodby, she starts to complain about how lonely she'll be till he sees her again. He is so upset after seeing her he can't sleep. Mrs. Lawrence, he is a good son but she's out to make him feel like a bad one. . . .

ANSWER: Then he'd better decide to be a bad one, because the only way of shutting off her flow of criticism is cheerful agreement with it.

Accusing people like her feel themselves to be quite worthless. So they've got to make us feel worthless, too. That's what makes it a waste of time to even try to defend ourselves against their fault-finding. The fact is, the more nervously we try to defend ourselves, the happier they are. For in our nervous self-defense, they read our desire for their approval of us as good, right and generally virtuos creatures. But if we cheerfully agree that we are as bad and wrong as they say we are, their accusations fall flat.

I know that such cheerful agreement with a critical relative can turn off the flow of reproaches because I've used it myself to do it.

The relative was not my mother but a sister of hers. For the aunt I could do nothing right. I could utter no opinion that wasn't instantly contradicted. And for some time I tried to deal with this compulsive accuser by "explaining" how good had been my intentions and how I merited her moral approval. Then, one day, when I'd been told how bad and wrong was something I'd done, I said, "You are undoubtedly correct. I do everything wrong. What's more, I am going to continue to do so now let's settle for me as an unregenerate person whom you cannot improve."

That ended the criticism. It replaced my accuser's desire to make me feel worthless with fear of me as a moral stranger. And that is the point, you see. So long as these compulsive critics of ours are sure that we share their standards of rightness and goodness, they can terrorize us with accusations of how badly we've failed to live up to them. Indeed, they derive their whole power from the fact that we share their moral notions.

AFI Works To Upgrade Status Of Motion Picture Entertainment

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

WASHINGTON, AP—The symphony, the opera, the ballet and the public library are weighty things to be taken seriously. The movie means that a couple has somewhere to go for an evening out of the house, to be entertained, to hold hands, to eat buttered popcorn and candy bars. Right?

George Stevens Jr. is too far. Wrong. However, as head of the new American Film Institute, he has made recognition of this stereotype of the silver screen. And he has determined that his new nonprofit, non-government corporation will change the picture.

"We have a strange attitude toward the movies in this country," Stevens says. "They've been respected for decades overseas as a central form of art. In the U.S. they've been thought of as just entertainment. Actually movies can be entertainment, and more, and often are."

"We take for granted that every man, woman and child goes to school and has access to those printed words. But how do they have access to their visual heritage? The child of the future America, the Ford Foundation, will be expected to have an opportunity to see Charlie Chaplin and 'Citizen Kane' as well as read Hemingway.

"We've gone to great lengths to make it possible for people to become literate. Now we're talking about the possibility of making them cinematic."

The AFI, first film institute in the U.S., though many countries have had them for years, announced an expected budget of $5.2 million for the first three years.

The AFI money is coming from the Motion Picture Association of America, the Ford Foundation, the National Arts Council and donations from television, foundations, companies and individuals. The latter fourth is yet to come, but Stevens is confident that it will.

Stevens is the son of George Stevens, famous movie director, of "Shane," "The Greatest Story Ever Told" and others. He is not related to Roger Stevens, head of the National Arts Council and "Citizen Kane" as well as read Hemingway.

After working for his father, Stevens, now 35, directed USA's film division from 1962 to 1967. "Not to brag about it," he said, "at USA, I was discovering new people and taking chances. I was sort of consistently successful."

Discovering new people also is part of his aim at the AFI. He explains that there will be three immediate aims: giving grants to makers of experimental and documentary films, setting up a Center for Advanced Study for a few extremely producing filmmakers graduating from college, and inventorying and preserving what film archives there are in the United States.

"All three are moving along," Stevens says, "but there is priority to the archives."

About the grants to makers of experimental and documentary films, Stevens says, "What we will want to do usually is to sponsor projects which provide an opportunity for new film makers."

"It costs so much money. A poet needs paper and a painter needs paint and canvas. But a movie maker needs film, processing, a lot of equipment, other people."

The Center for Advanced Film Study is projected as something like residency for fledgling directors. "There are a number of universities teaching film making as a profession, 10 in which you can get a degree in motion pictures," Stevens says.

HEART TRANSPLANT PATIENT TAKES A MEAL — Louis Washkansky, the world's first human heart transplant patient, eats a meal of porridge and boiled eggs in his room at the Groote Schuur Hospital in Cape Town, South Africa. (AP Wirephoto by cable from Cape Town)

"The problem is that graduates often find a dead end. What we intend to do is create a center where perhaps 15 of each year's most promising university graduates will come for highly specialized and sophisticated training and activity in film-making."

In the more distant future, Stevens thinks that state arts councils all over the country may want film repertoires. He says there will be a film theater in Washington's Kennedy Center.

"This is the kind of project from which, if properly managed, everybody in the country benefits. The public benefits because its quality of life is enriched; better experiences are available. It serves the creator because it provides a new audience and new opportunities for him. And it serves the business-kid, it has more body to it and man and the free enterprise system because new audiences and new creations create business for commercial movie theaters."

Handyman Woes... Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

QUESTION: I have been toying for some time with the idea of using a textured paint on my young boy's room. Frankly, the walls are pretty well banged up, and I have been told that textured paint will cover the marks without too much wall preparation.

Is this so? And can you tell me what I should know about applying textured paint?

ANSWER: Textured paint is very much like regular paint. Available in either latex or alkyd, it has more body to it and so does not flow very freely. This heaviness makes it excellent for creating dozens of ways to make your own patterns.

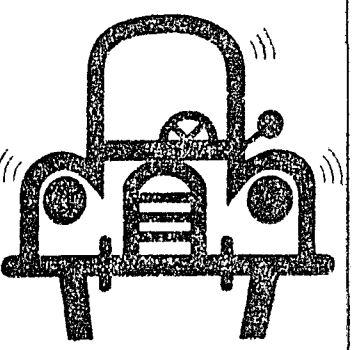

Some painters merely swirl the brush as they apply the paint. Others brush on the paint, then dab at the surface with the tips of the bristles. Or you can apply the paint with a brush, then dab at it with a sponge, or almost anything else that will produce a kind of rough finish. Let your imagination go. No matter with the result, the observer feels that it was intended to be that way.

It might be a good idea to practice with the paint a little to get the hang of creating some unusual design. But don't try to be too artistic or the fun of painting this way will be lost. The idea is to be kind of carefree since you want the walls to look different.

Yes, textured paint will cover marks, but you still must be sure to wipe off all dust, dirt and grime before painting. Also during your test period, experiment for different effects with a roller as well as a brush.

Berea Aid To Provide Carpet For Church Hall

The Berea Ladies Aid held its December meeting at the home of Miss Lucy DeGroot, assisted by the Misses Inez and Oley Beilschmidt.

The president, Mrs. Helen Stewart, opened the meeting with prayer. Mrs. Jesse Petefish had devotions and used the Christmas story from the Book of Luke and also led the singing of a carol. She closed with verse and prayer.

Minutes and communications were read by the secretary, Miss Oley Beilschmidt. Mrs. Irene Robinson gave the treasurer's report.

During the business session Aid members voted to purchase carpeting for the church hall. The revised by-laws were read and approved. The January meeting will be an all day session at the home of Mrs. Stewart when sewing will be done for the hospital.

Roll was answered with the Christmas verse by 12 members. Guests were Mrs. Mary Whalin, Mrs. Sadie Glick, Sara Ellen, R. L. and Karen Sue Petefish.

Mrs. Evalene Lewis was in charge of the program which included readings by Mrs. Jean and Helen Petefish, Mrs. Helen and Thelma Stewart.

Sara Ellen Petefish gave a recitation and sang. Mrs. Lewis arranged a contest and each person received a gift.

Members brought cookies and articles to be sent to an orphanage in St. Louis, Mo.

At the close of the meeting delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses and a social hour enjoyed.

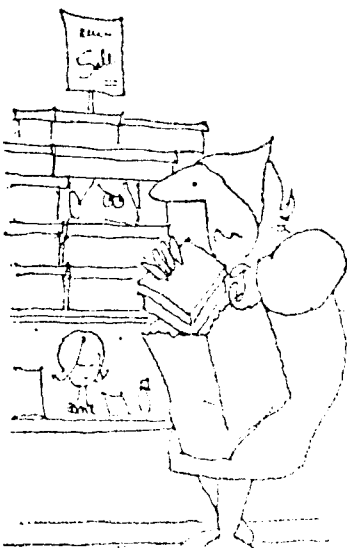

BOLDER THE BETTER

The bolder the chain the better. Staunch, extra-sized links all around, that's the big idea in chain belting now. Super, silvery-colored aluminum chains are the newest and lightest in weight and they manage marvelously to fit all sizes. A wonderful gift to hook onto.

SHUTTING OUT SHOPLIFTERS

The season to be jolly for most people also happens to be the busy season for some—shoplifters. A great name in store security, Pinkerton's, passes these tips along on how to foil the light-fingered few in holiday crowds.

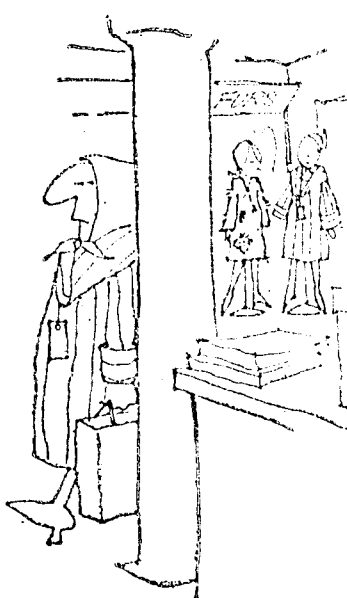

Counter merchandise stacked above eye level blocks clerks' field of vision, gives lifters a field day.

Fancy displays creating blind spots offer ideal concealment for lifters at work.

The intoxicated customer is one to be watched. Staggering around counters is one way of picking up a few odds and ends.

High-cost, easy-to-pilfer items displayed out of easy eyesight of clerks is asking for trouble.

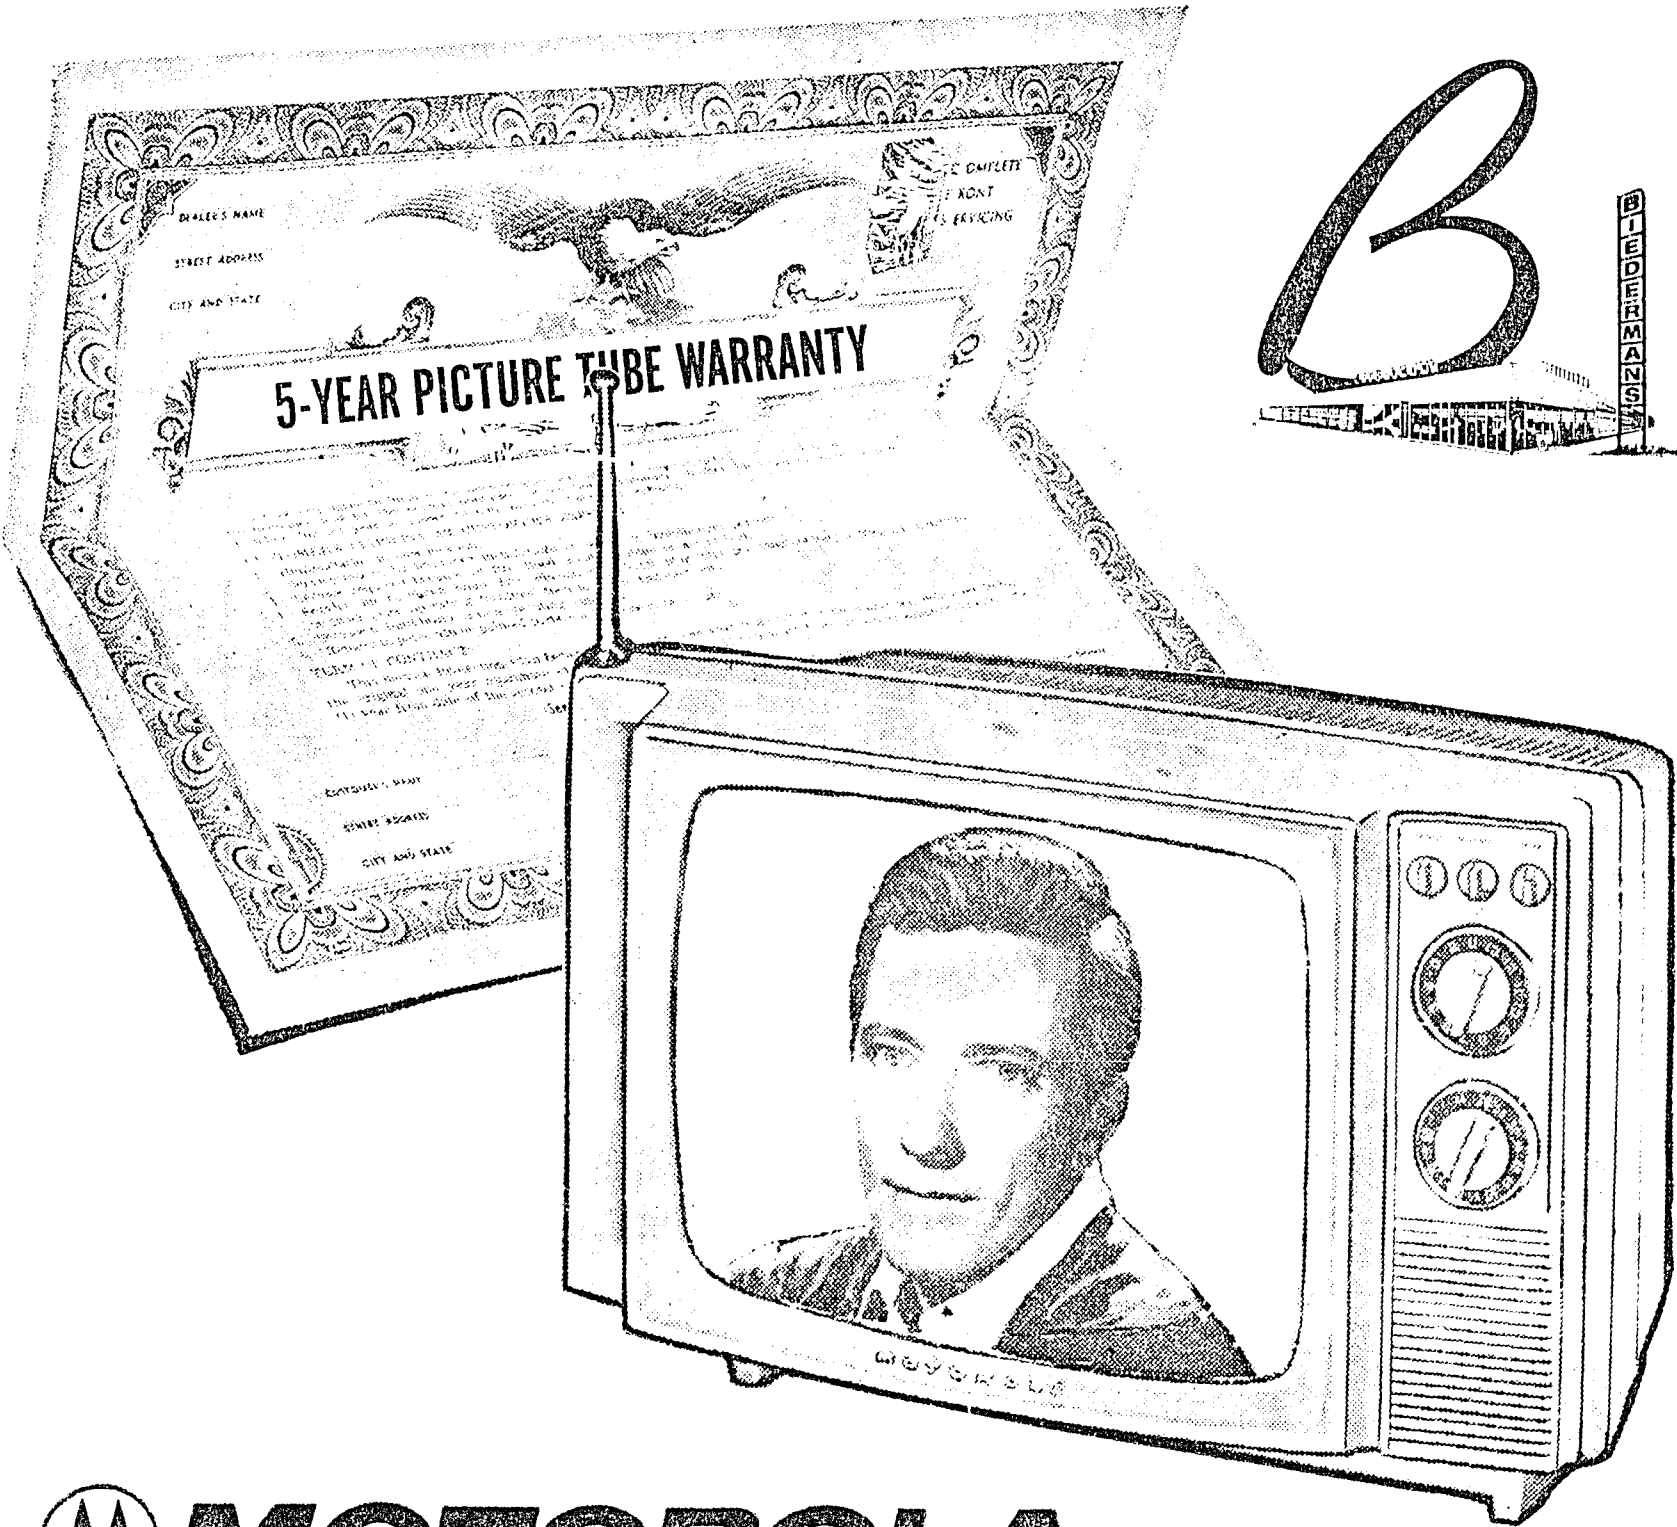

Favorite play: One shopper engages clerk in conversation while companion "browses."

Lifters don't like the limelight. Good store lighting is good protection.

Spare Acoustical Tile Makes 'Bulletin Board'

By POLLY CRAMER

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — When some remodeling was finished at our house we had left over a box of odd-sized pieces of acoustical tile. It seems a shame to throw this tile away so I wonder what could be made with it. My husband thought of tacking them on a board to make a large cork-type bulletin board for the children. — MRS. E. C.

Sounds as if your husband had a fine idea. Why don't you try it? — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I have found a wonderful way to display Christmas cards so they can be enjoyed individually throughout the holiday season. I covered my four panel screen with matching color nylon net. As the cards arrived, I inserted a small drapery hook in the back of each, hooked the blunt end through the net and filled one panel of the screen at a time. When it was all covered, I opened the screen to expose another panel of net and so on until the screen was full of pretty cards. The cards may be rearranged for a more artistic effect without disturbing any but those that are to be moved. — ALTA

DEAR POLLY — Do tell the lady who wanted to know what would clean windows after screens had been left on for a long period of time that a popular cola drink is the answer. I used it on old, old windows and it left them sparkling clean. One rainy night, my husband tried it on a car windshield when a customer at his service station had an unusual film on the glass. It performed miracles for us. — NINA

(Polly Note: Don't forget to rinse window with clear water after using cola process. — POLLY)

DEAR POLLY — Keep a small container in the refrigerator just for storing margarine and butter wrappers. They are great for greasing cookie sheets, cake pans, casseroles, etc. — MRS. A. S. D.

You will receive a dollar if Polly uses your favorite home-making idea, Polly's Problem or solution to a problem. Write Polly in care of this newspaper.

Illinois Angus Group Meets At Greenfield Dec. 9

GREENFIELD — A delicious beef dinner was served at the local Baptist church annex to 70 members and guests of the Illinois Valley Angus Association on Dec. 9th. Mary Kay Jennings provided music during the dinner hour.

Laverne Tuetken, president of the association, conducted the meeting and welcomed the group to the 14th annual session. Wilbert Joyce read the minutes and also gave the secretary's report.

Mary Kay Jennings was presented to the group along with the Angus-Elite, Claudia Melvin, who attended fairs and passed out ribbons to Angus winners.

Annie Ruyle drew names for gifts which went to, Claudia Melvin, Jr., gift; Mrs. Melvin Klaus, Carlinville, ladies and M. J. Melvin, mens. The publicity chairman, Eloise Featherstone, also received a gift.

Dennis and Greg Price presented musical numbers. Trophy winners were announced and presented along with special guests.

Jack Wock, state director, spoke briefly and announced the Illinois Futurity Angus sale, Jan. 24. Howard Becker reported on the tour last summer.

Mrs. Laverne Tuetken reported for the Auxiliary, M. J. Melvin gave the managers report. Eldon Starkweather, Greene county farm adviser, spoke and conducted the election of officers.

The slate includes: Dale Featherstone, Greenfield, president; Jack Wock, Jerseyville, first vice president; Meade Woods, Carlinville, second vice president.

Wilbert Joyce, Greenfield, secretary and treasurer; Jack Wock, state director; A. D. Ruyle, Roodhouse, sales manager and Eloise Featherstone, publicity.

Directors elected were Vernon Rahe, Scott county; Hanley Hoover, Pike; Joe Ingle, Calhoun and Lavern Tuetken, Jerseyville.

Pike's New 4-H Club To Meet Weekly On TV

PITTSFIELD — Pike County's newest 4-H Club will meet every week on television.

The new 4-H TV Action Club features a weekly series of ten thirty minute programs designed to teach basic emergency preparedness.

The series will be seen on Channel 7 starting January 6, 1968 at 12:30 p.m. Information explaining the new 4-H TV Action Club will be distributed to all fourth, fifth, and sixth grade classes in Pike county.

According to Assistant Farm Extension Advisor of Pike county, Danny Venosdel, parents are encouraged to have their children enroll in this educational TV series. Instruction for enrolling may be obtained at the county grade schools. Or a student may enroll by putting his or her name, age address, zip code, county, and state on a card and mailing it to 4-H TV, 125½ South Madison, Pittsfield, Ill., 62363.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Food, Hands And Water Spread Viral Hepatitis

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.
(First of Two Related Articles)
Viral hepatitis is now thought to be our most common communicable disease. Although the number of cases of measles was greater in 1965, measles vaccine has knocked it right out of first place. But, even in 1965, it was estimated that 30 undetected cases of viral hepatitis occurred for every one that was diagnosed as such. This disease is spread by water, food and hands that are contaminated by feces. Raw oysters and other sea foods from polluted waters have caused it. The incubation period is about 25 days and the period when a victim is most likely to spread the disease is from several days before until six or seven days after the onset.

Although no cases have been directly traced to swimming pools, these pools are a potential source of spread of the disease, especially those that do not have continuous filtration and chlorination. Anyone who has never had viral hepatitis can contract it, but children and young adults are most susceptible. It is often spread from one member of a family to another but there is very little risk of it spreading from one member of a schoolroom or an office to others. The incidence of this disease is higher in rural areas than in cities and is highest in the fall and early winter. The disease starts with easy fatigability, headache, depression, nausea and a feeling of heaviness in the abdomen. Sometimes the urine becomes dark (bile stained) and the stools light (absence of bile).

There may be fever for a few days at the onset and the liver may become enlarged and tender. Children usually have fewer of these symptoms than adults. One reason the disease is so hard to diagnose is that the characteristic jaundice develops slowly and in many victims is completely absent. Liver function tests are necessary for a positive diagnosis. Hospitalization is rarely required. Since there is no specific drug for this disease, recovery depends on prolonged rest and a diet high in protein and sugar, with very little fat. Since the appetite is poor, frequent small feedings should be given. Strenuous exercise and alcohol should be avoided for several months after recovery.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Bombs In The Night

Hidden Enemy Warring Against Oil Industry

By JOHN S. LANG
Associated Press Writer
LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — A hidden enemy is carrying on a strange guerrilla warfare against the $1-billion oil industry in southwest Louisiana, a spokesman says. "We can't name the pipelines, oil wells, have a man at each well 24 hours a day."

State and local investigators point out that because dynamite can be planted hours before it is detonated, a bomber has ample time to escape. And the only clues discovered so far have been a pocket knife, a piece of clothing, packing from fuses and items similarly difficult to trace.

One of the most recent blasts, a bombing of a 22-inch gas pipeline near Gueydan, La., on Oct. 5, prompted the Texaco Oil Co. to post a $50,000 reward. No one has offered information to claim nonunion producing companies it.

The foe is unnamed, his motives unclear. Only meager clues have been found at bombed sites. And countermeasures taken by state police and the sheriffs of 10 parishes have not achieved a single arrest.

Disturbed citizens have insisted the governor take action. They have formed committees, pooled their money and hired private detectives.

One drilling contractor has armed his 22 employees with shotguns, vowing the bombers "are not going to run these men off."

The big oil and gas corporations have tightened security and joined civic leaders in offering rewards totaling $80,000. But they admit, privately, they are a virtually defenseless.

"There must be 3,000 wells in southwest Louisiana," notes one industry spokesman. "We can't name the pipelines, oil wells, have a man at each well 24 hours a day."

State and local investigators point out that because dynamite can be planted hours before it is detonated, a bomber has ample time to escape. And the only clues discovered so far have been a pocket knife, a piece of clothing, packing from fuses and items similarly difficult to trace.

Privately officials of oil and gas companies theorize labor is trying to organize the largely nonunion producing companies firms involved in exploring and drilling for gas and oil—and harassing the big refining and distributing corporations which continue to use the small, local contractors.

Labor leaders deny the charges vehemently.

CHRISTMAS PARTY FOR NEW BERLIN CHILDREN DEC. 16

NEW BERLIN — The annual Christmas party for youngsters of the area will be held at 1:30 p.m. Saturday, Dec. 16 at the Sangamon County fairgrounds, New Berlin. The affair is sponsored by the New Berlin Men's Community Club, with members of the youth division of the New Berlin Woman's Club, assisting with the little children.

A meatball and spaghetti supper will be served as a fund-raising event on Saturday evening, Dec. 16 by the West Sangamon American Legion Post 743 in the Legion home, New Berlin. Serving will be after 6 p.m., with adult tickets one dollar and youngsters fifty cents. Dessert will be extra.

All proceeds from the affair, which is open to the public, will be used by the Legion Post to purchase clothing for needy youngsters of the school district, at Christmas time.

The Civics club of St. Mary's school has sent six Christmas boxes to servicemen in Vietnam and Europe, as a special project. Each box contained joke books, toothbrush and paste, a deck of cards, ten packages of Kool-Aid, a comb and a hankie, tooth powder, three dozen cookies and a pillow case.

Announcement was made that this month for state hospital patients, Mrs. Arthur Wilson, missionary secretary, reported on the book "Ecumenicity," and plans were made for the Christmas boxes for shut-ins.

Fifteen members and one guest, Mrs. Andy Ommen, answered roll call.

The next regular meeting will be a potluck at the home of Mrs. Harold Walsh.

Murrayville Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wilson entertained their family Thursday evening at a pre-holiday supper at their home. Present were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wilson and Jim and Pfc. and Mrs. William Gibson and son.

Pfc. Gibson received his Christmas packages as he is leaving this week for Vietnam.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Sunderland spent Friday in Springfield and en route home were supper guests of her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James Panning and daughter of rural Jacksonville.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Mutch spent Friday with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Emory Grider in Barry.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Summers accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Gale Dixon, Becky and Timmy of Greenfield were dinner guests Saturday of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Gibson and Rusty in St. Louis.

Look Ahead At What Life May Be Like In Year 2000

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — What will life be like in the year 2000? Conjecturing about our future has become a popular parlor game as wounded mankind limps its way through the final third of the most astonishing century the earth has ever endured.

There's no doubt there'll be some changes made, and the rate of change may even accelerate as we lose more anchors of the commonplace.

Assuming that human life will still exist at the dawn of the 21st century—and that is quite an assumption—here's one man's prediction of how it will operate:

Transplants of kneecaps will enable professional football players to stay in the game until the age of 50. Forced feeding and growth capsules fed them in youth will produce tackles who weigh a ton each on the hoof and quarterbackbacks eight feet tall.

There will be fewer birds, as half the countryside will be paved. Parking places will become hereditary.

A cup of drugstore coffee will cost 50 cents. So will bubble gum. Nickels and pennies will no longer be minted, and children will regard a dime with the same contempt they now do a penny.

The average job will take only 10 hours of work a week, but in order to live in the style which they prefer most men will hold at least four other moonlighting jobs, thus making a total work week of 50 hours.

Housewives will all take degrees in electronic engineering in order to save money by repairing the new gadgets in the home.

To keep them from being exterminated, all wild animals will be placed in zoos except for one long grizzly bear in Montana. It will carry a sign on its warning that it has been declared a living national monument.

To cut down the danger from Sunday drivers, each car owner will be allowed to take his car out of the garage only on every other Sabbath.

Mugging will die out as each citizen will be allowed to carry only $5 in change in his pocket. All purchases over that amount will be charged to individual credit accounts controlled by the federal government. Uncle Sam will collect the money from your paycheck each month.

There will be no way to duck paying bills.

Surgeons will still perform operations, but otherwise doctors will have no contact with patients. If you feel you are sick, you can have your ailment checked in a central clinic by a computer. However, to keep medicine from becoming too impersonal, you will be allowed to be diagnosed by the computer of your choice.

Children will remain in the home only until their 13th birthday. During their teen years they will be compelled to do forced labor on government prison farms and in prison factories and attend compulsory classes at which they will be taught how to behave like human beings.

All young people will be forced to marry at 21, remain in college until 25, and complete the birth of any children they wish by the time they are 30. Then they will be given an injection which will make them forget all about sex, or break into uncontrollable laughter whenever the word is mentioned. The injection will last for life.

As cities will have become too valuable to be destroyed, Australia will be evacuated and made into the world's battlefield. All international wars will be fought there, and only one war will be permitted at a time. They will be waged by robots, criminals, tax dodgers, and people just too darned cantankerous to fit into a civilized pattern.

But there won't be many people like that, since it will be illegal to be unhappy. "Merry pills" to guarantee a cheerful mood will be distributed free by governments to everyone.

Yep, that's the way things will probably be in the year 2000. In a way I'm kind of sorry I won't be here to see it all. And in a way I'm grateful that these blessings are reserved for posterity.

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — In its battle for survival, the deficit ridden American Motors Corp. has received bank terms that would be refused by richer companies and now, in addition, it will get a tax break that nobody else can obtain.

The company, which recently reported a fiscal year loss of $75.8 million, soon is expected to receive a second extension on repayment of a loan that originally totaled $95 million. The banks seemingly have no choice but to extend.

Almost simultaneously, congressional action this week will mean a big tax rebate for the company, a gift that may total as much as $20 million. Only American Motors can obtain a rebate through this unique legislation.

The bank loan was extended last year when the troubled company, the nation's fourth largest automaker, neared bankruptcy. The loan, totaling $95 million, was extended by a group of 24 banks.

Last year, when the loan was to have been repaid, these banks granted an extension on American Motors' promise to sell a subsidiary and use some of the money to reduce its indebtedness. This American Motors did.

Now the company still owes the banks $60 million and still it is barely afloat in a sea of red ink. Payment day is Dec. 31, and it appeared the banks will again extend the deadline, for they cannot sink the company.

The tax action, which has been approved both by the House and Senate, also has been tailored specifically to American Motors' problems.

The tax provision concerns a section of law which permits operation of losses which allows a reduction on taxes already paid in more profitable years.

The new legislation will enable American Motors to apply its present losses against taxes paid in the previous five years. This is an extension of two years, a benefit that no other company can obtain.

The wisdom of this move now is being questioned by businessmen who certainly would like to have the same breaks. Is this legislation fair to other corporations? Can Congress so easily give preferential treatment?

Though based in perhaps the most humane motives, the action is provoking a lot more questions also.

Is it fair to other taxpayers, to productive individuals and enterprises who theoretically must pay a disproportionate share of taxes to support a losing enterprise?

Isn't it the free enterprise credo, with reservations dictated by morality, charity, civility and progress, that the less efficient concerns should fall by the wayside as the productive and efficient advance?

Proponents of the tax measure can muster some very convincing arguments. American Motors employs close to 28,000 workers whose jobs would be jeopardized by financial failure. Its 2,500 dealers would be endangered. Hundreds of suppliers would be hurt by bankruptcy. Shareholders would lose equity. Automotive competition would be reduced.

The present plight of American Motors may not be the result solely of its own internal problems, but a very strong case can be made for mismanagement.

Why, the critics ask, should a once profitable company have fallen into the red at the very time auto sales were reaching record high levels?

Why should American Motors, which profitably developed the smaller car market in the United States, now see it taken over largely by foreign imports, whose sales are 15 to 20 per cent higher than a year ago?

JERSEYVILLE CLUB'S TRADITION TO MEET IN HISTORIC HOME

JERSEYVILLE — The historic Cheney home on North State Street will be the meeting place for the Jerseyville Woman's Club at 8 p.m. December 21st. It has been the custom for a number of years for the Christmas meeting of the Club to be held at the Cheney home now owned and occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss Cheney, the fourth generation of the family to reside there.

The frame structure of the Cheney home was erected in 1827 around the log cabin built by pioneer John Faulkner, the first home in the City of Jerseyville. The spacious residence now occupied by the Cheneys houses many valuable antiques, both Mr. and Mrs. Cheney being interested in this hobby.

They offer the hospitality of their home each year for the Woman's Club meeting at the Christmas season.

There will be special music under direction of Miss Helen Coker, vocal music director of the Jersey Community High School, and singing of Christmas carols by the guests.

The program entitled "Show and Tell" will be an informal showing and description of each member's most treasured possession having a Christmas motif.

Mrs. Cheney and Mrs. F. A. Munsterman are co-hostesses for the meeting, other committee members being Mrs. M. A. Curran, Miss Mary Gledhill, Mrs. Antonio Villoch, Miss Alma Breitweiser, Mrs. Maurice Jacoby, Mrs. Don Martin, Mrs. F. A. DuHadway, Mrs. Fred Coughlin, Mrs. M. Edwards Breed, Miss Roberta Steinman, Mrs. John Plautt, Mrs. Lee Manning, Mrs. Alvin Pettit, Mrs. Austin Cope, Mrs. Richard Stem, Mrs. Paul Fleming, Mrs. Frank Fulkerson and Mrs. Harry Edwards.

Second oldest race track in America is Pimlico, in Baltimore, Md.

4-H Club News Notes

CARROLLTON — The Mt. Gilead 4-H Workers met Nov. 18 at the home of Vanessa Whitlock.

Demonstrations were given by Eunice Kuhlman, Joyce Becker, and Vanessa Whitlock. Nelda Bruce had a very interesting game.

The following officers were elected for the new year: President, Donna Ballard; vice president, Eunice Kuhlman; secretary-treasurer, Vanessa Whitlock; reporter, Joyce Becker; recreation, Nelda Bruce.

The December meeting was held on December 2 at the home of Danna Ballard.

ASHLAND — The Circleville 4-H club met recently at the high school, with Alan Edwards presiding. The leaders, Walter Jurgens and C. F. Agger, Jr., handed out pins and the project awards. Both senior and junior officers were installed.

Officers for the senior group are: Tom Latham, president; Alan Edwards, vice president; Marilyn Thornley, secretary; Stan Fulton, treasurer; L. T. Thornley, reporter.

Officers for the junior group are: Sally Stribling, president; Gailen Thornley, vice-president; Kathy Gardner, secretary; Jenine Thornley, treasurer; and Andy Devlin, reporter.

The Federation delegates are Rodney Allen and Claudia Spradlin.

Money making projects were discussed and the possibility of picking corn was brought up before the meeting.

The December meeting will be a potluck supper and each member will bring a gift for the exchange.

CARROLLTON — The meeting of the Eldred Emeralds was held November 13. Three leaders and 21 members were present. Talks, demonstrations and officers' reports were given and the Christmas Party was planned, with Carol Sue Clendenen as chairman.

The agenda for the next meeting, which will be December 11, was discussed.

CARROLLTON — The Carrollton Buccaneers met Nov. 13 with Linda Chapee presiding. Participating in the program were Linda Chapee, Debra Fraley and Mike Weber.

The group voted to have a skating party Dec. 11 and a Christmas potluck supper was discussed.

Valerie Chapee and Steve Naber led recreation.

The North Side Juniors met at the North Jackson School on Monday, November 27. Steve Newberry presided.

Talks were given by Mike Flynn, Paul Armstrong, Warren Lewis, and Mark Jones. A new member in the North Side Juniors is Bill Nerganah.

The December meeting of the Morgan County 4-H Federation included a Christmas party during which members donated gifts for the "Goodwill Tree" at Elliott State Bank.

Jim Burrus presided during the business session during which a "TV Action" project was discussed. The project would attempt to interest young persons in 4-H work through television publicity.

George Trull discussed new projects and the ways in which they will affect area members.

Representatives of the Franklin clubs furnished refreshments which were served at the close of the meeting.

Opera Fame Comes Slower Without Met

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Norman Treigle is building the near-impossible, a front-ranking American opera career without the Metropolitan Opera.

Critics call Treigle one of the great bass-baritones and one of the great singer-actors. But wide public recognition is coming slowly. Still Treigle pursues the path that he deliberately has chosen.

He has been at the New York City Opera since 1952. After singing secondary roles for two years he has since been singing leading roles, in such operas as "Susannah," "The Marriage of Figaro," "Carmen," "Boris Godunov," "Don Giovanni" and "Tales of Hoffman."

He doesn't want to move to the Met, he says, "because it would be on their terms and I don't like them. I don't want to be one of their basses on the Met roster and have to sing whatever they give me. There would be no satisfaction for me in being one of a dozen on a list. My fulfillment comes within myself and what I can contribute. I'm not singing just to pick up a paycheck."

There is that difference between being the New York City Opera's most outstanding male singer and a kobeable one in a crowd at the Met. Also, Treigle likes the New York City company's philosophy of "total theater" in which acting is much stressed.

The "total theater" concept is what attracted Treigle to the theater, it's wonderful. The making precious metals.

Jacksonville Courier, Jacksonville, Ill., Dec. 14, 1967 23
Jacksonville Journal, Jacksonville, Ill., Dec. 15, 1967 23

old Italian school was just for singing — stand at the footlights and make beautiful sounds. I don't think audiences will buy that any more. At the New York City Opera we're trying to win the man in the street, trying to win people who haven't been in an opera house before and don't know what it's all about. That's the way we build our audience. They don't come dedicated to throwing flowers. A lot of people come with the idea they're going to the theater."

About the company's move from the old City Center to the New York State Theater in Lincoln Center, Treigle says, "The company was scared; it was like moving out of an old house where you were born. But we just had to leave. I think we're finally coming into our own, as far as making a real international reputation."

"We have gained a lot from Lincoln Center, as far as prestige goes. And we have probably gained at least 20 per cent of a new audience, and they have stuck."

Treigle, pronounced TRAY-gull, looks like one part that he sings, the bullfighter in "Carmen." He is darkly intense, graceful, starvation thin, 5 feet 11. Resonance rolls out from within that frail-looking frame and Treigle, always actor as well as singer, is entirely effective in a number of differing roles.

TO 'RIDE SHOTGUN' IN VIETNAM—VAN NUYS, Calif. — The U.S. Army's newest aerial warrior, a winged helicopter developed by Lockheed Aircraft and called the AH56A Cheyenne makes its first public flying demonstration (above) at Van Nuys, Calif., Wednesday. It will "ride shotgun" for troop-carrying helicopters in Vietnam. The craft has more fire-power and speed — 250 miles an hour — than copters now in the war area. (AP Wirephoto)

Timewell Unit's Christmas Party Will Be Friday

MT. STERLING, Friday, Dec. 15th, will be an all-day meeting for members of the Timewell Unit of Homemakers Extension service. The hostess will be Mrs. Edna Nelson and the meeting will be the group's Christmas party.

Move to Iowa — Mr. and Mrs. John Kelly and family, who have been residing on West South street in Mt. Sterling the past few years, moved last Saturday to Milton, Iowa.

Frank Huseman of Mt. Sterling is a patient in Culbertson hospital in Rushville.

Elmer Hutnagel has been dismissed to his home here after being a patient in Culbertson hospital in Rushville.

William Logsdon of Mt. Sterling is a patient in Culbertson hospital at Rushville.

Teachers Group Meets In Greene

ROODHOUSE — Thirty-one area teachers attended the Friday night dinner meeting of Chi Chapter, Delta Kappa Gamma society, held at the Carrollton Baptist Church. The tables were festive with Christmas decorations and the dinner was served by the ladies of the church assisted by the girls' Sunday School classes. Invocation was offered by Mrs. Roy Marshall, Jerseyville.

The teachers adjourned to the fellowship room of the church where a nativity scene was the center of interest. The scene was a gift to Miss Nita Ford from Miss Lucille Dawdy, a Chi Chapter member now teaching in Taipei, Taiwan, Republic of China. Greetings were extended to all by the president, Mrs. Roy Marshall, Jerseyville, with special recognition accorded to Miss Edith Hyatt, White Hall, some criminals are so bad that they shouldn't be allowed to have a lawyer."

Rikli said this evident lack of knowledge about the Bill of Rights together with the increasing amount of crime and violence indicates that a better appreciation and understanding of the citizen's rights under the Bill of Rights is greatly needed. Rikli called attention to a recent statement by Judge Winn Knock of the U.S. Court of Appeals, 7th Circuit, that "Our greatest danger is not from abroad but from internal collapse of respect for law."

Copies of the booklet may be obtained free, Rikli said, by writing to the Illinois State Bar Association, Illinois Bar Center, Springfield, Ill. 62701.

Bar Association Offers Free Books Explaining "Your Bill Of Rights"

In special observance of Bill of Rights Day, which is held December 15 each year, the Illinois State Bar Association today (December 12) announced the publication of a booklet entitled "Your Bill of Rights," which discusses the 23 provisions contained in the first ten amendments of the U.S. Constitution.

Over 3,000 copies of the 112 page booklet have been distributed to public and private high schools and colleges in Illinois. The booklet was written by lawyer members of the American Citizenship Committee and the Bill of Rights Committee of the ISBA. It was edited by attorney Carole K. Bellows, Chicago.

Attorney Donald C. Rikli, Highland, Chairman of the Bill of Rights Committee, said the purpose of the booklet is to encourage educators to teach the significance of the Bill of Rights to students and to encourage lawyers to give talks on the subject before student and adult audiences.

Survey Students — He called attention to opinion surveys which show a "deplorable lack of understanding of the Bill of Rights among high school students. One such survey, reported in the Seattle, Wash. Post-Intelligencer, revealed that 75 per cent of the students surveyed agreed that if an accused person pleads innocent to a crime he should be forced to testify," Rikli said.

"Censor" Press

He said the same survey showed that "64 per cent of the girls and 54 per cent of the boys agreed that newspapers should be subject to censorship on what they can print in addition to restrictions on military information."

"3rd Degree" OK

Rikli said another survey conducted by Purdue University among high school students disclosed that "42 per cent agreed the police or F.B.I. may sometimes be right in giving a man the 'third degree' to make him talk and 6 per cent agreed that some criminals are so bad that they shouldn't be allowed to have a lawyer."

Rikli said this evident lack of knowledge about the Bill of Rights together with the increasing amount of crime and violence indicates that a better appreciation and understanding of the citizen's rights under the Bill of Rights is greatly needed.

Rikli called attention to a recent statement by Judge Winn Knock of the U.S. Court of Appeals, 7th Circuit, that "Our greatest danger is not from abroad but from internal collapse of respect for law."

Americans Learning Vietnam Is Graveyard Of Reputations

By PETER ARNETT
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Americans are learning the hard way what the French, in their last days in Vietnam, knew only too well: Vietnam is the graveyard of reputations.

Vietnam relentlessly grinds people down. Few ranking Americans have departed Vietnam with their reputations enhanced. Many failed to understand the dynamics of the war, particularly the military officers who insisted on viewing Vietnam in conventional military terms.

Lt. Gen. Fred C. Weyand
CHRISTMAS PAST SPIRIT
MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The spirit of Christmas past has come to Minneapolis.

Twenty-five scenes from the novels of Charles Dickens have been recreated in the auditorium of Dayton's, a downtown department store. Scrooge, David Copperfield, Micawber, Tiny Tim, Peggotty and more than 150 other Dickens characters, most of whom are animated, walk the streets of early Victorian London or live and work in the two-story clapboard houses and buildings that make up Dickens' Christmas Village.

Two years of research and production in London, New York and Minneapolis went into the project. It took a full year just to collect the authentic accessories used in the settings. New York designer Mrs. Tommie Rowland spent over two years blowing life into the three-quarter size life figures.

The exhibit runs through December.

spent a year in Vietnam before, as he explains, "The truth dawned on me."
Now the 6-foot-5 Californian is one of the handful of American general officers who seem to understand the social and political aspects that make this conflict so different from other wars the United States has fought.

Few generals have the acumen to bridge the gulf that has divided the military and civilian approaches to the Vietnam war. Weyand has done it.

Here is what Weyand says about the war:

"It is so unconventional that we are having a hard time understanding it. The U.S. military organization has had to be tailored and modified to fit itself to this kind of war."

"Our American terminology doesn't fit it, either. We have had to devise new names like 'countdown', 'hamlet festival', and 'search and destroy' to describe what we are doing."

"It is difficult to paint a word picture of what is happening here in Vietnam, even to military men skilled in the business."

Weyand's "moment of truth" came early this year after he assumed command of Field Forces 2, equivalent to a corps in earlier wars. Its region includes Saigon, the northern Mekong Delta and the rubber plantations and piedmont that stretch up to the central lowlands.

The 51-year-old soldier served in the China-Burma-India theater in World War II. He brought the 25th Division to Vietnam from Hawaii in December 1965, and commanded it here for one year.

Operating in the Cu Chi area northwest of Saigon, a hotbed of guerrilla activity, Weyand figured that he and his division had made solid progress during 1966.

"We had, too," he recalls, "but it was progress under my concept of conventional warfare. When I took over command of Field Forces 2 I began to realize the enormity of the problem. I had not known how deeply the Communists were embedded in the countryside, that the threat was as acute, or that Saigon was as close to being strangled as it was."

Weyand had come to Vietnam to fight another Korea, where he commanded an infantry battalion through five battle campaigns. He became instead a student first, then an adept practitioner, of military political warfare.

Many observers regard his region as the one place in Vietnam where solid progress can be charted. They say Weyand and his top civilian official, Texan John Paul Vann, are applying tactics likely to show long-term results.

"In Germany we didn't worry about people, about winning their hearts and minds," Weyand says.

"In Vietnam, this is turned upside down. We have destroyed some divisions several times, yet the effect in the Vietnamese villages was not noticeable. We did not deter the terrorists and the guerrillas."

"It became obvious to me that the priority objective in Vietnam is control of the people. The Viet Cong guerrillas and the regular enemy troops who work amongst the people became the real threat. They controlled the people, like the hoodlums with the switchblade knife in the subway."

The temptation to underrate the guerrilla has been strong for many American career officers, and Weyand says he did not appreciate the military effectiveness of the local guerrilla battalions, companies, platoons and squads until he took over his new command.

"Our operations must and do take into consideration economic and political factors far beyond those normally considered," he observes. "We concern ourselves with the attitudes of the people, the impact of spending on the economy, opening roads for normal commerce to resume, things like that."

Weyand began using American troops in antiguerrilla actions around Saigon and in the northern delta. The tangled jungle at the periphery of heavily populated areas just to the north of Saigon has been bulldozed flat, literally tearing the ground away from Viet Cong who had dug extensive tunnels and rooms in these jungles over the years.

Weyand believes the stranglehold on Saigon has been broken, and that the Vietnamese army will eventually be able to take over the job of controlling Communists in provinces around the capital.

The general has his hands full right now with a resurgence of North Vietnamese troop activity in the Loc Ninh-Bu Dop area. He has sent U.S. battalions into fixed positions along the Cambodian border and they have repelled Communist attack after attack, inflicting sizable losses

Evening Circle At Hills Home In Franklin

FRANKLIN — The November meeting of the Evening Circle was held at the home of Mrs. George Hills.

Mrs. Barnard Camm, vice president, was in charge of the meeting and opened it with a prayer by Johnny Pumpkin Seed, from Prairie Farmer. Roll call, "a thought for the day", was given by 11 members.

Mrs. Harry Whitlock was program leader for "Where Do We Go From Here?" (under section on Youth—Society's Untapped Reserve). She was assisted by a panel of five members—Miss Evelyn Seymour, Mrs. Clarence Jewsbury, Mrs. Ralph Dahlman, Mrs. Walter White and Mrs. Kenneth Junk. Following the program questions were asked concerning youth, church and community, and a discussion followed.

Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Roberts took his brother Denny Roberts and sister Mrs. Auscho Loyd to Carlinville on Saturday to visit their brother and wife Mr. and Mrs. Jess Roberts. He has been very ill for the last three months.

Mark Birthday
Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Laugharn, their son Mr. and Mrs. Bob Laugharn and family of Shelbyville, and their son Mr. and Mrs. Joe Laugharn and family of Sycamorewood, were all Thanksgiving guests of another son, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Laugharn, Gary, Rickey and Julie Ann. The latter's first birthday was celebrated.

without taking many casualties themselves.

He makes a point of visiting all the battlefields in his region. He leaves his imposing appearance and star-studded collar with occasional gallows humor.

"I'm putting a colonel in charge of this operation," he mentioned to a group of senior officers one day. "We can relieve a colonel, but not a general. Us generals have to stick together."

And he believes the war is being won. "Day in and day out I see the good things being done here," he says. "They far outweigh the bad things."

The current military threat, he believes, can be dealt with by the U.S. military and the Vietnamese. "I can foresee the day when the Vietnamese can handle it alone," he asserts, with this qualification: "The big unknown is the intentions of Hanoi and Peking. Are they going to enlarge their aggression?"

hand, living in, with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Clausen of Delavan, and were accompanied by his parents Mr. and Mrs. Milton Calhoun who were also guests.

Rev. and Mrs. Kenneth Junk on Thanksgiving Day drove to Independence, Mo., to the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Lanpher where they met their children Judy, Richard and Bart; also Bart's fraternity brother Dave Williams, all students at Kansas Wesleyan, Salina, Kan. They came home Friday accompanied by the four young people, who sang a special number Sunday morning at both the Durbin and Franklin Methodist churches. Rev. and Mrs. Junk took them back to college Sunday afternoon.

Miss Peggy Turner spent Thanksgiving with her mother and husband Mr. and Mrs. James Ranson. Other guests for dinner were his sister Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Speer and children Dan, Faye, Jane and Christy. Seymour of DeKalb, the children's grandparents Mrs. Viron Ranson of Jacksonville and Mr. and Mrs. Guy Seymour; Mr. Ranson's aunt, Miss Annie Ranson; his grandfather, Charles McLamar, of Murrayville, Miss Turner's friend, Larry Northrop, of Jacksonville and Mrs. Tamar Burch, Jacksonville.

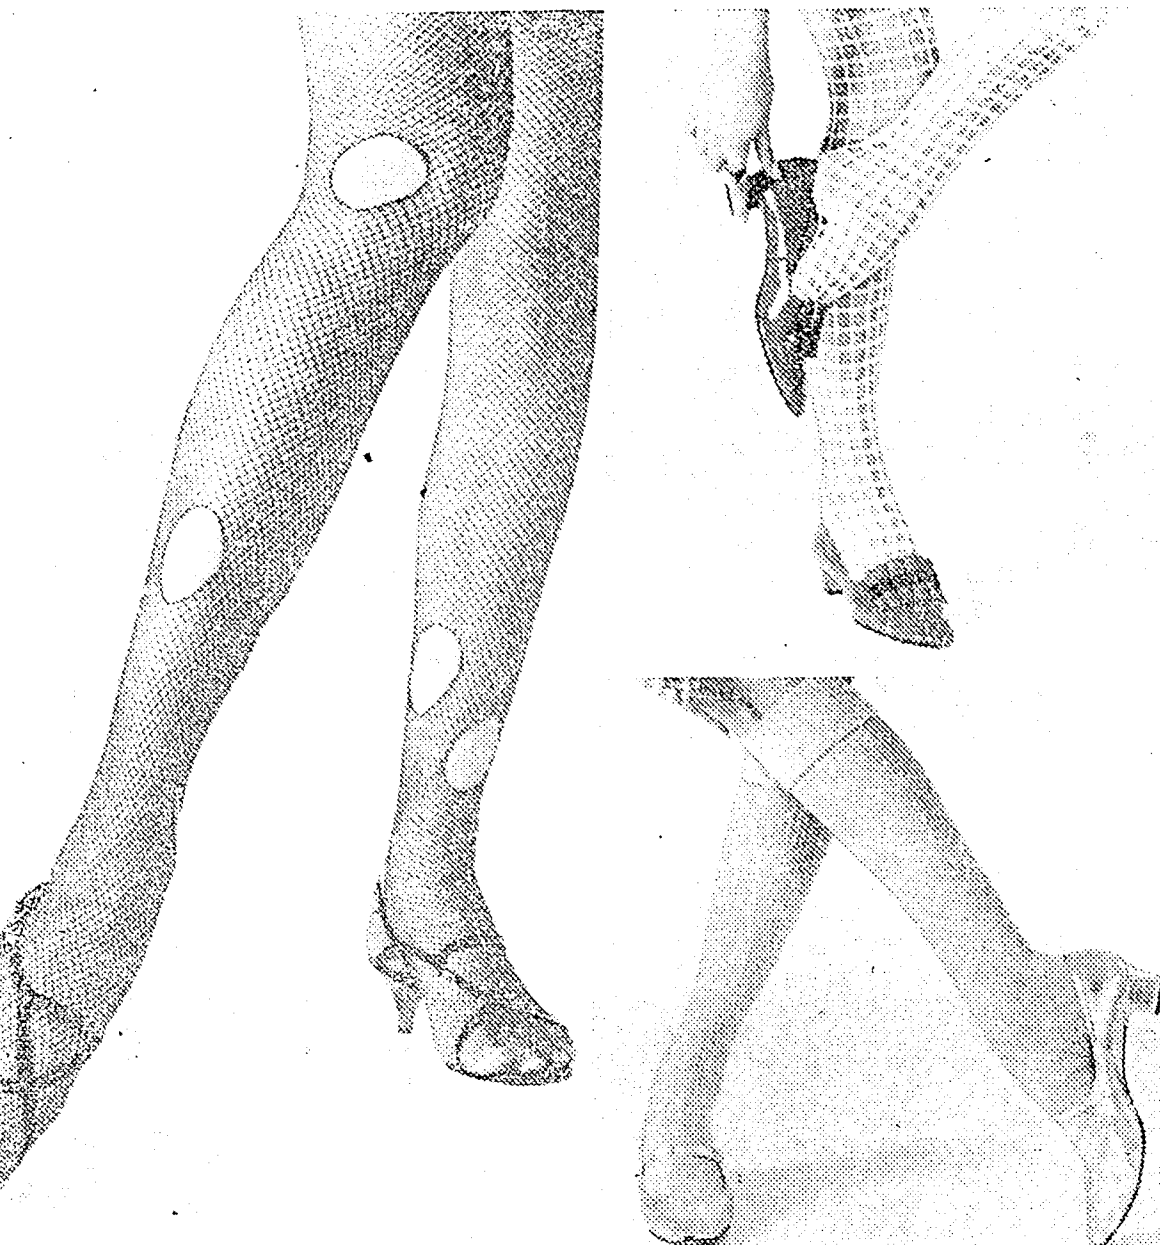

Miss Ruth Tulpin and cousin Sylvan Six, of Ashland were Thanksgiving guests of the former's niece and husband Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hayes in Chicago, and stayed until Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bennett, Rosemont, Mich. were Thanksgiving guests of her parents Mr. and Mrs. Barnard Camm, from Wednesday to Sunday night. Other dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Robinson and James, Miss Ethel Stewart, of Springfield; Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Schumacher, of Chapin, and Miss Ina Stewart of Jacksonville.

Decline in Deaths
Due to the development of antitoxin serums, deaths from tetanus, often called lockjaw, have declined in the United States from 1,472 in 1920 to an average of less than 300 per year.

Open Passage
Bypassing the St. Lawrence rapids and Niagara Falls, the St. Lawrence Seaway permits passage of big ocean-going ships all the way from the Atlantic Ocean to Chicago and Duluth.

"Fight Tooth and Nail"
The expression, "fight tooth and nail," originated with the early Spanish pirates who would hide nails and metal between their teeth when captured, then use them as weapons for escape.

Mac Matmen Make Debut On Saturday

Coach David Camaione's top men for Carthage wrestling squad makes its debut Saturday afternoon (Dec. 16) when it engages in a CCIW (Collegiate Conference of Illinois and Wisconsin) triple dual meet in the MacMurray Gymnasium.

The Highlanders will take on Carthage College at 1:00, Millikin University at 2:30, and Southeast Missouri State at 4:00. Each encounter will be scored separately.

Although weak in the lower weights, the Clan grapplers are a logical choice to sweep the day's events. Freshmen Bob Stanley (Youngstown, Ohio) and Wayne Dudiak (Oakland) will each wrestle in his first collegiate match at 123 and 177 lbs., respectively. Roger LaPointe (Colton, Calif.), a junior college transfer, will also be on the mats for Mac for the first time; he weighs in at 130 lbs.

Roommates Ron Otto (Park Ridge) and Gary Henning (Rockford) will carry the Highlander colors in the 145 and 160 lbs. categories. Sophomore Larry Kolb (Oakland) gets the nod at 152 lbs.

The 167 lbs. class will find either Paul Nelson (Wheaton) or Jack Jepson (Willoughby, Ohio) wrestling. Rounding out the MacMurray matmen will be Bob Kellogg (Indianapolis, Ind.), the NCAA College Division Heavyweight Champion.

Fearsome Foursome Vs Forgotten Five

BAITMORE (AP) — The Fearsome Foursome must contain the Forgotten Five if the Baltimore Colts are to win the National Football League's Coastal Division championship Sunday.

The Fearsome Foursome is the agile, mobile and hostile defensive line which has helped

Rams' Jones Having Best NFL Season

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Last week in Memorial Coliseum an unidentified fan unfurled a banner which read:

"Deacon Jones for Secretary of Defense."

Well, defense is what defensive end Deacon specializes in and his talents will again be in focus Sunday when David—the Deacon—Jones and the Los Angeles Rams meet the unbeaten but twice tied Baltimore Colts.

As has been widely circulated, the nationally televised struggle is for the Coast Division title in the National Football League.

Coach George Allen is fond of saying — and often he gets kidding about it — that each victory was a "team effort." And each player didn't give out 100 per cent but "110 per cent."

Jones is indeed a team player and the 110 per cent label fits. Jones, All-pro in 1966, may be having an even greater year, and the same is true of the man at his elbow, huge Merlin Olsen, and the other members of the big front four, Lamar Lundy and Roger Brown.

Jones, 6-5, has trimmed off about 10 pounds and operates at 250 pounds.

Best Year of Career

"I feel like I'm having the biggest season of my five-year career," said the Deacon following a practice session. "My insight into the game is better. I can read plays quicker. My pass rush is more effective. I took off some weight and it has helped my endurance."

"Maybe I've lost a step, but I'm stonger and as quick as I ever was. Quickness is my chief weapon."

The Rams tied Baltimore, 24-24, in Baltimore last Oct. 15. In that one the Deacon fumbled the Colts' famed magician, Johnny Unitas, once for a loss and had a hand in it on two other occasions when Johnny U. was thrown for losses.

"Unitas," said Jones, "is without a doubt the toughest passer in the league to beat. He isn't cute. He doesn't scramble. He simply puts his blockers around and gets set to throw and bangs you to stop him."

"Just when you've clawed your way in and throw out your arms, sure you've got him, he turns and more often than not rebuilds the line and we're doing it's a completed pass."

Colts Have Slim Edge On Figures

NEW YORK (AP) — The Baltimore Colts enjoy a slight edge over the Los Angeles Rams in Sunday's all-important National Football League game according to the table of takeaways and giveaways.

The takeaways include the enemy pass or recovered an enemy fumble. The giveaways are the times a team has its pass intercepted or losses of the ball via a fumble.

Don Weiss, director of information for the NFL, has drawn up an interesting table of takeaways and giveaways that shows the Colts and Rams running one-two.

NEW YORK (AP) — News item: The New York Mets ask the Washington Senators for permission to talk to Manager Gil Hodges, then sign him to a three-year contract.

Money was a factor, but the biggest consideration was that I was going home," said Hodges who lives in Brooklyn, N.Y.

News item: The St. Louis Cardinals ask the Mets permission to talk to president Bing Devine, then hire him as general manager.

"It is obvious I took a slight reduction in pay, but my family is 99 per cent of my consideration," said Devine, who never moved his home from St. Louis after he was fired there in 1954.

Future news items: The Pittsburgh Pirates ask the Cardinals for permission to talk to coach Joe Schultz, then sign him to a 16-month contract.

"It's great to be going back to Pittsburgh where I got one hit in two times at bat in 1941," said Schultz.

The Los Angeles Dodgers ask the Pirates for permission to talk to General Manager Joe L. Brown and sign him to a long-term contract as fan entertainment director.

"To be candid, as I always am," said Brown, "the pay isn't quite as much, but it'll be tremendous to be back where my father, Joe E. Brown made such a big hit."

2 On All-Star Team

Jones and Olsen were on The Associated Press' NFL All-Star team announced Tuesday, and the Fearsome Foursome name is well known around the NFL.

Opposing them Sunday will be five players whose names even rabid Baltimore fans would have a hard time recalling—tackles Bob Vogel and Sam Ball, guards Glenn Ressler and Dan Sullivan, and center Dick Szymanski.

Jones and Vogel have gained all-star recognition in the past, but failed to make even the second team this year. Sullivan is in his sixth season, but only his second as a starter, while Ball and Ressler became starters this year.

"The Rams' defensive line is unmatched in pro football as far as I'm concerned," said Ball, who admits he was "thrown into deep water" against Jones in only his third game as a starter.

ST. LOUIS: The NFL's second leading ground gainer, Johnny Roland of the St. Louis Cardinals, is visited by his wife Barbara in a hospital here Tuesday. Roland underwent knee surgery Monday for torn right knee ligament he suffered in game against Cleveland Sunday. Roland is out for the season's final game against New York.

IC, Mac Play Tonight

Clan Press Again Is Key To Outcome

By BUFORD GREEN
Sports Editor

Jacksonville's hottest basketball rivalry resumes tonight when MacMurray entertains cross-town rival Illinois College in an 8 p.m. contest, with the same big IF looming as the game decider.

That IF is the MacMurray full-court press, a weapon that more often than not has been the difference in the Highlanders' 11-1 domination of the seven-year rivalry.

Much of this year's MacMurray offense is centered around what has proven to be a most effective press, and both Mac coach Bill Wall and both Mac players know that it is where the game will be won or lost. IC's ability to bring the ball down and set up will again be the determining factor.

MacMurray, making its first home appearance of the season, brings a 2-3 mark into tonight's contest, with the three losses being against top-notch clubs: defending NIT champion Southern Illinois, perennial NCAA power Oklahoma State and Quincy College. Victories have been over Blackburn and Western Illinois.

IC brings a 4-4 mark cross-town, with victories over Blackburn, twice, George Williams and Westminster; and losses to Rose Poly, twice, Drake and Culver-Stockton.

To date IC has averaged 89.4 points to their opponents' 86.3, to Mac's 79.4 offensive mark and 66.2 defensive average.

Merris sees the game this way: "In the past we have had to solve their press and get the ball down the floor without rattling and getting out of our game. With Mac using two squads it will mean that we will have to try even harder because of their depth. They will certainly put a lot of pressure on us, but I feel we have a good shot at them. Handling their press will be the key to our play and the game."

Could Be Better

Merris has not been completely satisfied with the Blueboys' play to date. "I don't think as yet we have played the kind of ball I had hoped for. We have looked good at times but ragged at others. I had hoped some of our early rugged competition would help us to put together a top-notch game, the kind that it will take to beat MacMurray."

Merris will start 6-2 senior Dan Runkle and 6-2 junior Charles Martin at the forwards; 6-3 senior Paul Runkle, nearly recovered from an ankle injury that caused him to miss one game, at center; and 5-11 junior Kevin Lawrence and 5-9 junior Ted Pardo at the guards. Top reserve are 6-4 freshman forward-center Dennis Baker; 6-1 freshman guard John Mayer; and 6-2 guard Robin Manker. Two-year regular guard Pete Gallatin recently quit the squad to concentrate on other school activities.

To date Martin has been the Blueboys' top rebounder and shooter, as he was last season, with an average of 21.6 points per game. Paul and Dan Runkle and Lawrence have averages ranging from 13.2 to 11.7 per game.

Wall will open with 6-2 junior Al Killoran and 6-2 soph Mark Kolb at forwards; 6-4 senior Dave Berst at center; and Darryl Rendleman and Dennis Desmond, both 5-9 sophomores, at the guards. Only Kolb and Killoran have averaged in double figures, 14.6 and 11.2 respectively.

"Rat Pack"

The second unit, or "The Rat Pack" as they are called, consists of 6-1 soph Jim Samuel and 6-2 soph Tom Peters at the forwards; 6-2 senior Tom Cochran at center; 6-2 soph Chuck Alexander and 6-2 junior Steve Sherrill at the forwards. Mike Zimmers and Mike Haliburton, a pair of 6-6 freshmen centers, will also see plenty of action.

On his use of alternating squads, Wall says, "We do it for two reasons. Rick Jones (assistant coach) talked about it early and about three weeks before the season we found it to be very effective against our first team and put it in. It helped us win against Westminster and Blackburn. It helps to wear down the other teams."

"Thus far I have been very pleased with our play. I overscheduled for a reason with this young club. We caught our lumps against Oklahoma and while against Oklahoma State, but I wanted the young kids to see how defense is played on top-notch clubs and I feel it will help us in the future."

"Actually the Rat Pack has been more effective so far, although they have not seen as much total time."

Merris will have some IC players working better this year. They have some defensive moves and hits giving them offense more motivation. They have to try to neutralize Martin and they will be at a college or university.

Drafting will be in reverse order of the teams' worst-to-best percentage rating in the combined 1967 standings of both leagues. Coin flips will determine priority in case of ties.

As was the case last year, only athletes who have completed their college eligibility will be selected. Both the AFL and NFL eliminated drafting redshirts in the first combined draft last March.

If a player has not completed his eligibility he may not be drafted until five football seasons have elapsed from the time he first entered a recognized college or university.

Griggsville, WP Gain Pike Finals

HARDIN — West Pike scored his second straight upset victory over Pleasant Hill in the first round of the 16th annual Griggsville County Tournament here Wednesday evening.

In Friday's finals Pleasant Hill and Perry play for third at 8:30, followed by the Griggsville-West Pike title encounter at 8:00.

Mick Survanice stole the ball and hit a bucket with seven seconds left to pull West Pike from a one-point deficit. Mark Reeves' two clutch free tosses with eight seconds left in regulation play allowed Perry to gain the overtime. Perry was three points ahead in the overtime before West Pike, which knocked off second-seeded East Pike Tuesday, rallied to gain the title game.

Perry missed 19 of 34 free throws in the game, while West Pike missed 14 of 26 free chances. Perry is now 4-3 for the season. Phil Johnson led the losers with 20 points.

Pleasant Hill outscored Griggsville by eight points from the floor but hit only six of 17 free throws. Griggsville controlled the paint.

Maz And Alley NL's Deadliest DP Combination

CINCINNATI (AP) — The National League's deadliest double play combination in 1967 was the Pittsburgh tandem of Bill Mazeroski and Gene Alley.

Official league fielding averages released Wednesday showed the Pirates led the league with 186 double plays with shortstop Alley participating in 105 of them and second baseman Mazeroski in 131.

Cookie Rojas of Philadelphia was second to Mazeroski for second basemen with 92 and Donn Clendenon, Pirates first baseman, was second among all players with 122 participations.

Top putout man was Ernie Banks, veteran Chicago Cub first baseman, with 1,383 in 147 games. His assists brought his total fielding chances to 1,484, a .993 average.

Ron Santo, also of the Chicago Cubs, was credited with 364 putouts and 393 assists at third base. The outfield with the most putouts was Jim Wynn of Houston with 364. Roberto Clement of Pittsburgh managed to get 17 assists and even figures in four double plays.

Most Chances

Randy Lundy, another Cub, had more fielding chances (928) than any other catcher and made 865 putouts. Tim McCarver of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals had 67 assists and Joe Torre of Atlanta figured in 12 double plays.

Among the pitchers, Milt Pappas of Cincinnati handled 49 chances, including 13 putouts without an error, while Larry Jackson of Philadelphia had 21 putouts and 64 assists in handling 90 chances.

Gaylord Perry of San Francisco and Don Drysdale of Los Angeles also had 64 assists and Ron Herbel of the Giants took part in seven double plays.

The best fielders in the league, by position, were first baseman Wes Parker of the Dodgers (.996); second baseman Woody Clemente (.992) and third baseman Cleve Boyer (.990) of the Atlanta Braves; shortstop Bobby Wine (.980) and outfielder Tony Gonzalez of Philadelphia (.993). McCarver was the best fielding catcher with a .997 average.

Houston Ramps

HOUSTON (AP) — Second-ranked Houston used Elvin Hayes' 40 points and a second half full court press to smother winless George Washington, 86-61, in the first game of the annual Bluebonnet Basketball Classic Wednesday night.

Houston pulled to a 45-30 halftime lead on the 20-points of Hayes who along with 6-9 Ken Spain also dominated the backboards.

Hayes finished with 18 rebounds while Spain hauled in 14. Houston, winning its fifth straight game without defeat, outrebounded the Colonials 49-26.

Roger Strong's 18 points led George Washington scorers.

FOREIGN CARS ELIGIBLE

Blanda Is Named Player Of Week In AFL By AP

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

George Blanda has been swinging his big right toe in anger since 1949 when Harry Truman was President and the American Football League wasn't even a dream.

But he's rarely been as angry as he was against Houston and it paid off with four field goals and selection Wednesday by The Associated Press as the AFL's Offensive Player of the Week.

Blanda, 40, was cut loose by the Oilers before the season and caught on with the Oakland Raiders because of his talented toe.

Each time he trotted on the field against his old teammates Sunday, he was greeted by long and lusty boos from the Houston fans.

"This was fantastic," said Blanda, after booting field goals of 12, 32, 31 and 45 yards that helped Oakland wear down the Oilers 19-7.

Blanda grinned from ear to ear. "The best day of my career. To come back here and show all those rude fans that the boogie doesn't bother the old man."

Jolted by Boos But Blanda admitted that the boos jolted him a bit.

"I thought maybe—just maybe—the fans would respect me more than that," he said.

It was Blanda who quarterbacked the Oilers to AFL titles in 1960 and 1961, the league's first two years of operation.

Those were the days when Blanda spent his afternoon avoiding blitzing linebackers and piloting the Oiler offense.

He's a bit elderly for that now, but he still can kick the ball. The four field goals and one extra point pushed Blanda into the AFL scoring lead with 104 points. He has kicked 19 of 23 field goals and 47 extra points for the Western Division champion Raiders.

Hewitt Dixon, who scored Oakland's only touchdown against Houston, gained 96 yards in 21 carries and was the game's top runner.

Oilers Have Put The Foot Back In AFL Football

NEW YORK (AP) — Houston, tied with New York for the American Football League's Eastern Division lead, has put the foot back into football.

Hoyle Granger and Woodie Campbell, a pair of tough running backs, have been the main cogs in the Oiler offense and statistically, they show the best average gain per carry in the league.

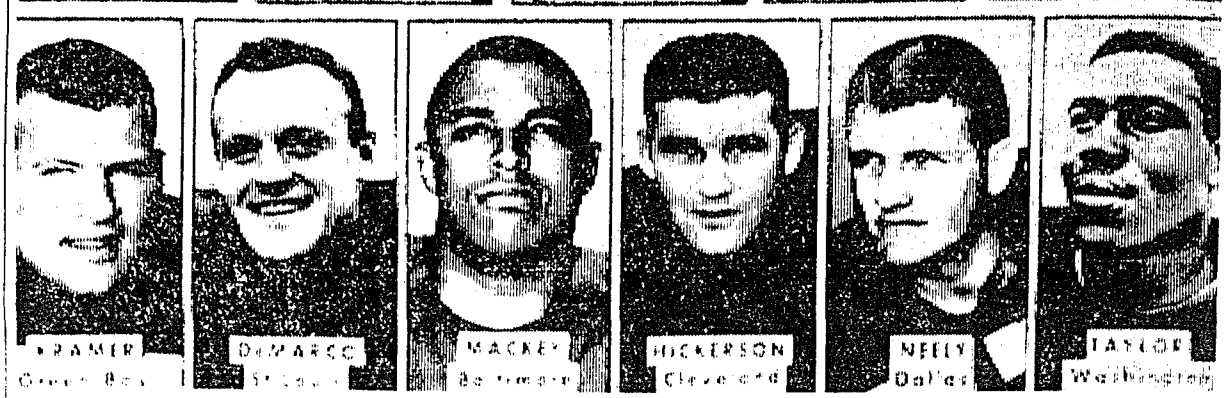

Official figures released Wednesday show Granger, the No. 2 rusher in the AFL, and Campbell, ninth. Both are averaging 4.9 yards a carry, tops in the league.

Granger has gained 918 yards in 188 carries and Campbell has gone 405 yards in 83 attempts. Jim Nance still leads all rushers with 1,052 yards in 245 carries, a 4.3 average.

Oakland's George Blanda booted four field goals against Houston and took over the scoring lead with 104 points. George Sauer of New York caught nine passes against Kansas City and moved into first place among pass receivers with 62 for the season.

Announce North Team For Annual Senior Bowl

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — Undeclared Wyoming's Paul Toscano and once-beaten Toledo University's John Schneider will quarterback the 27-man North team announced Wednesday for the 19th annual Senior Bowl game Jan. 6.

Both are tremendous passers. Sugar Bowl-bound Toscano had 134 completions for 1,791 yards and 18 touchdowns this season. Schneider completed 127 for 1,650 yards and 10 touchdowns.

Their prime receivers will be Rick Eber of Tulsa, who had 67 catches for 973 yards and 10 touchdowns. Haven Moses of San Diego State, 54 for 958 yards and 7 touchdowns; Ken Dyer of Arizona State, 39 for 654 and 4 touchdowns; Tom Bausch of Iowa State, 33 for 429 yards and 2 touchdowns; and Bill Anders of Ohio State, 28 for 403 and 3 scores.

The North squad will be coached by Mike Holovak of the Boston Patriots and includes nine Big 10 players.

The squad has first-team All-America lineman Gary Cassels of Indiana and defensive back Dick Anderson of Colorado; and second-team defensive back Tim Montgomery of Penn State.

A huge running back, 6-4, 232-pound Lee White of Weber State, won a first-team berth on the Little All-America team. White gained 1,378 yards on 284 rushes for Weber State.

The South squad announced Tuesday has as its quarterbacks Florida State's Kim Hammond, ranked second in the nation in total offense, and Dewey Warren, who guided Tennessee to the Southeastern Conference championship.

The Southerners, who will be coached by Hank Stram of the Kansas City Chiefs, include four All-Americans and five second-team members.

First-teamers are end Dennis Homan of Alabama, center Bob Johnson of Tennessee and line-men Dennis Byrd of North Carolina State and Greg Pipes of Baylor.

Second-teamers were Hammond, linemen Harry Olszewski of Clemson and John Boynton of Tennessee; and linebackers Fred Carr of Texas-El Paso and D. D. Lewis of Mississippi State.

The players turn pro in the game, winners being paid $1,000 each and losers $750 each.

CASS AUXILIARY RECEIVES THANKS FOR OVERSEAS WORK

ARENZVILLE — The Arenzville American Legion Auxiliary meeting on Monday evening was opened with prayer by the chaplain, followed by singing the National Anthem. Seventeen members answered roll call.

The president thanked the committee which was in charge of the Cass County Auxiliary meeting held recently at Arenzville, for contributing to its success.

Mrs. Lois Stock conveyed a thank you from the ladies of the Methodist church for the donation which the auxiliary had given to help with boxes for servicemen overseas. The group voted to give an additional $5 donation.

Mrs. Marie Peck extended thanks for the flowers and cards sent by Auxiliary members while she was a hospital patient.

Since the Arenzville unit had entertained the district director at the installation of the 1967-68 committee for the refreshment are Mrs. Irene Madine, Mrs. boy at Bell Cottage at Normal.

officers in September, they voted against contributing to the director's expenses for county meetings.

The group decided to send a Christmas gift to a sponsored Mrs. Eloise Knight, Mrs. Lois Joanne Peck, and Mrs. Marie Peck.

A prayer in memory of Mrs. Lula Crum was led by the Chaplain, and the business meeting was closed with the hymn, "Joy to the World."

A gift exchange was held, and refreshments were served by Mrs. Eloise Knight, Mrs. Lois Joanne Peck, and Miss Anna Louise McLain.

The January meeting will be held January 2.

Dad In Vietnam Writes Grade School Children Why "Job" Must Be Done

Editor's Note: The letter printed here was received at the Carrollton elementary school where the writer's two small daughters are pupils in the third and fifth grades. PsG Bigley serves in Vietnam and is the son of Mrs. Yuel Gibbs of Roodhouse. He has a brother, Donald, who is also stationed in Vietnam.

The letter is reproduced because of its sincerity and the interest it provides for readers.

23 Nov. 67
Camp Enaria
Vietnam

Dear Teachers and Pupils of the 3rd and 5th Grade.

This letter may come as quite a surprise to most of you. However today is Thanksgiving and I wanted to take the opportunity to write to all of you. I thought it might interest you to know a little about the country, the people, animal life, and the reason for being here in Vietnam.

Many of us do not appreciate the reason for our being in Vietnam until we have arrived in this country. However, after we are here awhile, we realize the importance of our being here. Most of the people here want no more than you and I. A good form of Government, a right to their own religions and beliefs, and a free way of life. We are here to aid them in achieving those goals.

The people here, for the most part, are poor people and they can be broken down into two groups. The Vietnamese and the Montaguards (Mountain Guards).

The Vietnamese are found in the cities and lowlands. They are in some respects cleaner people than the Montaguards. They tend to be lazy and in many cases dishonest. Please do not misunderstand me they are not all this way. I only intended this for a small group.

The Montaguards are referred to as the natives. They are a very proud group of people and they live in the mountain regions of the country. In all, there are eleven tribes of Montaguards. They are hard workers and very loyal and honest.

The color of their skin and the clothing they wear makes it very easy to tell the Montaguards from the Vietnamese.

Our enemy can also be classified into two groups. The North Vietnamese regulars and the Viet Cong. The North Vietnamese Army (Regulars) is a well-trained unit and is most cases they have good supplies and equipment.

The Viet Cong, which is a French word, or rather I should say an abbreviation of the French word meaning Vietnamese Communist, work in smaller groups. Sometimes they only have two or three to a group. They have very poor equipment and weapons. But they are, however, very good at making destructive devices: mines, booby traps, etc.

I know that many of you must think that our only reason for being here is to destroy these people. If you do think this, please forget it. We are here to help a country free itself of Communism and help its people achieve a better goal in life. We know that killing is not our way of life. I for one have never fired an unfriendly shot. I hope and pray, I'm never in a position where I have to. There are many ways to settle human indifferences other than fighting.

We are trying to help the people here, by sending out medical teams to treat the sick. They live on a very poor diet and in most cases they don't know the importance of cleanliness. The medical teams not only treat them for illness and broken bones, but they try to teach them how to wash themselves, their clothes, and the importance of keeping clean.

We send out teams to aid them in building better homes, and to show them how to better cultivate their land. We aid them in building roads, wells for better water, and schools where their children can learn.

The poor diet, the unhealthy living conditions, and hard work make the people here look older than they really are and they die at an early age. It is very seldom that you see a young person with pretty teeth. Some are so diseased that it's a shame to look at them. Add this all up and you can see that by our sending teams out to help these people is more important in winning them over to our way of life, than killing them.

Sometimes when I look at these people I feel ashamed. I have so much and most of them have so little.

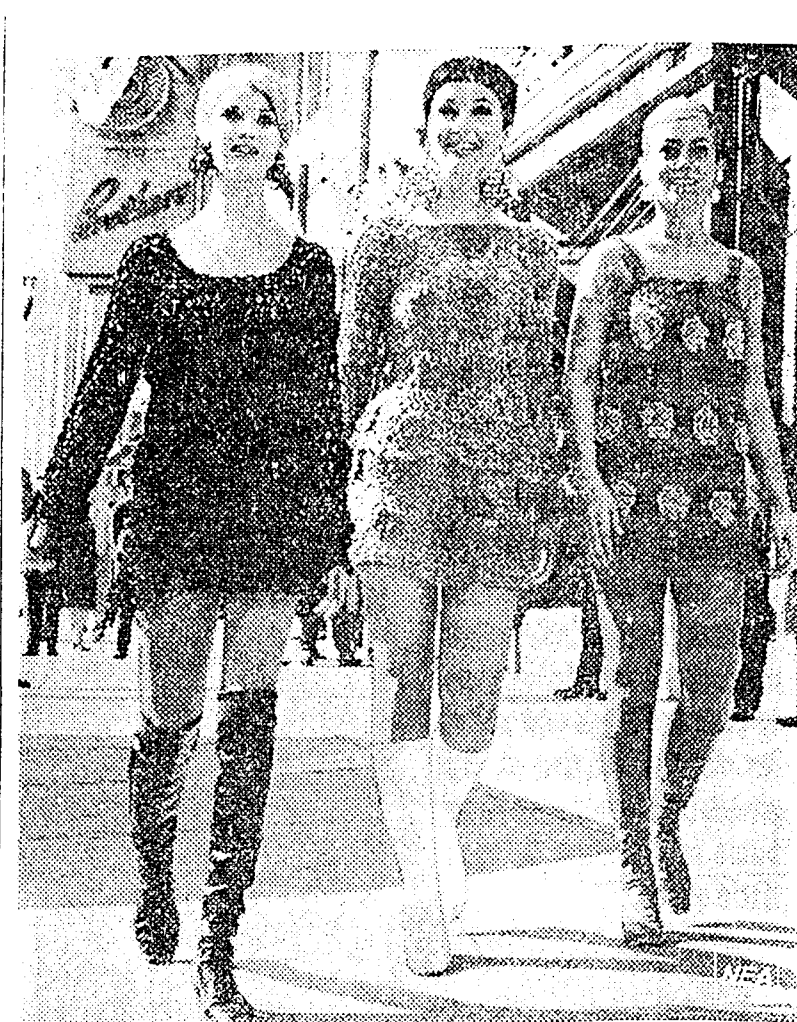

There are many, many animals here. Both tame and wild. The natives here raise chickens, goats, hogs, cattle, horses, water buffalo, and of course, dogs. The wild life to name a few, consists of monkeys (not TV type), elephants, tigers, deer, and wild water buffalo.

There are also many types of birds and insects. Plus there are numerous snakes—Boas, King Cobras, Bamboo Kraits, and Bamboo Vipers. I know they have others, but I'm too afraid of snakes to go and try to find out what kind they are.

Well, I guess I had better quit before I write a book. But before I go, today being Thanksgiving, I would like to pass on to you some of the things I'm thankful for. If I were to try and write the many things I've been thankful for in my life it would take me days, but here are a few.

First, I'll always be thankful of my parents. They taught me right and wrong and guided me toward a wonderful manhood. Second, the thanks I could give my teachers would never be enough. They not only taught me how to add and subtract, but they taught me how to gain the knowledge that would aid me in my worldly travels. Many, many things that I have undertaken in life were made easy by the knowledge given to me by wonderful teachers, like yours.

Third, I'm thankful that in the class rooms, with my daughters, are boys and girls like you. I know that in a few years you will be the ones, regardless of how small a part you play, who will guide our country and protect our way of life.

Patterson RNA Elects Slate Of Officers

PATTERSON — The Loyal Camp No. 5141 Royal Neighbors of America met Thursday evening December 7th for the annual election of officers. Oracle Margaret Hicks presided and the flag was presented by Elaine Newingham in the absence of the flag bearer, Minnie Steelman. Carol McEvers was chosen for the social membership.

The following officers were elected to serve in 1968. Oracle Margaret Hicks: vice-oracle. Mary Nagle: past oracle. Marilyn Ford: chancellor. Cora Aulgar: recorder. Nona Odom: receiver. Mildred Wilkinson: marshal. Juanita Rollins: inner sentinel. Janet Dawdy: outer sentinel. Kathy Conrod: manager. Georgia Ford: physician. Dr. Dech: and musician. Mildred Dawdy. These and the appointive officers will be installed at the January meeting.

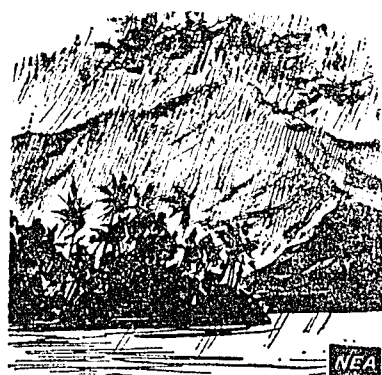

After the coin collection and the closing of the camp, the hostesses Norma Blakey and Elaine Newingham served refreshments. Mrs. Hazel Strommatt was awarded the door prize given by Mrs. Iva Prindle.

The Christmas potluck supper will be Thursday, December 21, with Laura Dawdy, Bertha Nicholson, and Meleta Stewart in charge. Secret pals of the last year will be revealed and new names for the coming year will be drawn. Hostesses for the coming month will be chosen.

Mrs. Cora Bain observed her 84th birthday anniversary on Sunday, December 3 and her dinner guests were Mr. and Mrs. Everett Bain of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Claude Haney of Glasgow; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Steelman of near Manchester; and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Steelman and daughter Tammy of Winchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bain of Granite City were Friday night evening callers in the home of Mrs. Bain and Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Bain of Elsberry, Mo. visited with her on Saturday morning.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Cherrapunji, India, near the Burma border, holds the world's record for the most rain in a 12-month period. The World Almanac says that from August, 1860, to July, 1861, 1,041.78 inches of rain fell on the beleaguered town. Yet, over the years, Mt. Waialeale, Kauai, Hawaii, has had an average rainfall of 471.68 inches compared to about 450 inches for Cherrapunji, making Mt. Waialeale the world's wettest spot.

Sylvania's $99.95 portable with air suspension speakers isn't hard to take.

Model 410GY

Don't let the light luggage look fool you. It's loaded. And after all, in a stereo, it's what meets the ear that counts.

It's got snap-in detachable speakers. The same sealed air suspension speakers you find in every Sylvania stereo. Portable or console. And no matter what the price. The system that delivers the full range of sound, clean and clear.

And it's got a Garrard automatic turntable. With a finely-balanced tone arm and diamond stylus.

Precise, but rugged. So wherever you take it, you're not taking a risk.

And a fully-stereorized stereo amplifier. That gives you all the power you need. Without being heavy-handed about it.

But it's neat (only about 15½" x 20½" x 11"). And light (32 lbs.). And priced lower than you'd expect for the components it carries.

So, if you drop in and listen to it, you may get the urge to walk out with it. Don't worry. You can take it. Easy.
